WILL SALUTE THE U. S. FLAG!

WASHINGTON, April 16.—A sudden and startling shift in the Mexican situation occurred today as the result of a cablegram received from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American Charge d'Affaires at Mexico City.

An air of optimism was immediately noticeable at the White House and this was followed by semi-official reports that President Huerta had acceded to all the demands of the United States or had promised to do so, and that the armada of battleships speeding to the Mexican coast to enforce President Wilson's demand for a salute to the American flag would be recalled.

O'Shaughnessy's dispatch reached the State Department at 10:40 o'clock while Secretary Bryan was in conference with John Lind and Count von Bernstoff, the German Ambassador. The Secretary of State hurried to the White House, where he was closeted with the President for about twenty minutes.

Senator Shively, acting chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, also was present at this conference.

"VERY ENCOURAGING" REPORT.

Secretary Bryan, upon leaving the executive offices, stated that he had received word from Charge O'Shaughnessy that the situation in Mexico City was 'very encouraging.'"

Neither the Secretary of State, Senator Shively nor Sec-

FILE WILL OF FORMER GOVERNOR

The will of former Governor Eben S. Draper was filed in the Probate Court at Worcester today. The will makes public and charitable bequests amounting to $230,000. The valuation given of the estate is (estimated) $4,000,000.

By provision of the will the Hopedale Unitarian Parish receives $20,600 as a permanent fund, the income to be applied to the care of the church in Hopedale, which was the gift of the ex-Governor and his brother, George J. Draper, in memory of their parents.

The Milford Hospital, another of the testator's gifts to his home town, receives a permanent fund of $100,000 and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, of which he was a member of the Board of Trustees, receives a permanent fund of a like amount.

To the American Unitarian Association is given the sum of $10,000.

The Milford Hospital is also given real estate estimated to be worth $25,000. The Hopedale Cemetery Association is left $4,000 for the upkeep of Draper's family plot.

After a few smaller personal legacies, including gifts to certain household employes, the residue of the estate is given in trust for the equal benefit of his children.

The executors and trustees are R. H. Bristow Draper, Thomas B. Gannett and Charles B. Barnes.

The testator's interest in the stock of the Draper Company is made the subject of a special trust, of which R. H. Bristow Draper and Charles B. Barnes are the trustees, and the will provides that the testator's younger son, Eben S. Draper, Jr., shall be joined as trustee under both trusts when he shall have reached the age of twenty-five years.

New Hampshire Divorcees Are Married in Hub

Mrs. Gladys Turner, twenty-two, of No. 15 Lincoln street, Rochester, N. H., and Thomas E. Call, sixty-three, of Portsmouth, N. H., divorcees, were married at the Hotel Clarendon at 11 o'clock Tuesday night by former Representative Freeman O. Emerson of Ward 12, a justice of the peace. The marriage license was returned today to the city registrar by Emerson. The witnesses to the ceremony, which was performed in a private room at the hotel, were John A. Guber and C. G. Tibbett, an attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. Call were divorcees. Nine or ten days ago they endeavored to get married by Assistant City Messenger Charles Silloway at City Hall, but he directed them to confer with the city registrar's office about taking out a marriage license in compliance with the five-day law. They did so.

Last Tuesday the couple called for the license and, after answering their divorce papers, were given a license to marry. They went to the Hotel Clarendon and summoned Freeman O. Emerson by phone.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was given in their honor by friends. Mrs. Call wore a handsome gown and looked very pretty. Later she and her husband went to the Hotel Brewster. Call told his friends and Mr. Emerson that he had purchased a nice Summer home for himself and bride at Alton Bay, N. H., and that they would spend their honeymoon there.

Strecker in Charge of Sub-Treasury

Charles B. Strecker today became assistant United States treasurer in charge of the Boston sub-treasury. Judge Morton of the United States District Court administered the oath in the presence of Colonel George H. Doty, the retiring assistant treasurer, and many spectators. Assistant Treasurer George Fort and four other Federal officials from Washington, making up a board of examiners, began counting the money in the sub-treasury. This will take up a week.

Suffragettes Burn Mansion in Ireland

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, April 16.—Suffragette incendiaries burned a large, untenanted mansion near here today, causing $25,000 loss. Cards bearing a bitter denunciation of Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists, were found upon the grounds. The Irish suffragettes are angry at Sir Edward because he did not pursue his campaign to cause the downfall of the Asquith cabinet.

9 PERISH WITH SHIP IN STORM

SEABRIGHT, N. J., April 16.—While the crews of two life-saving stations struggled to save them, nine members of the crew of the schooner Buckley from Jacksonville, Fla., which was driven ashore last night by a gale were drowned early today. The only member of the crew saved is John Martinson, who was taken to a hospital in a delirious condition.

The waves were too high to launch lifeboats, so efforts were made to rig up a breeches buoy. While this was being done the rigging was carried away, Martinson being the only man to remain on board. Finally a lifeline reached the ship. The sailor tied it around his body, and was dragged ashore through the surf.

Among those drowned, said Martinson, were the captain and his wife

Bury Victims of the Melvin Fire

Four victims of the Hotel Melvin fire were buried today. A triple funeral was held for J. Raymond Power, his wife and son at the home of Mr. Power's mother, at No. 4 Regent square, Roxbury. There was also a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's Church, the Rev. Dennis F. Sullivan being celebrant. Mrs. Alice L. Shackford, who jumped to her death from the third floor of the Melvin, was taken to West Hampton for burial. The Rev. J. Harry Holden conducted services at Waterman's Chapel, No. 2228 Washington street, Roxbury.

Boy with the Mumps Runs Mile in Sleep

Irving Harlowe, an eleven-year-old Lynn boy, had the mumps. Last night, walking in his sleep, he left the house in his nightgown and ran a mile through the rain. He thought soldiers were chasing him. Today he said: "Mamma, I think my mumps are cured." He is the son of Rufus F. Harlowe of No. 26 Union street, Lynn.

Ask for Bids for 1,200-Foot Drydock

"Club" Groton Chief.

GROTON, April 16.—Bartholomew Dowling became this town's chief today after being presented a regulation club and a purse of money by friends.

RANTOUL TRUCE ON CHILDRIN

The fight of Mrs. Lois Burnett-Rantoul and her husband, Edward Liantoul, for the custody of their two children practically ended today when Judge McIntire in the East Imbridge court indefinitely postponed the hearing of the cross petition of the father and mother for the care and possession of the children.

Judge McIntire was told that counsel for both parents were endeavoring to reach an agreement as to the custody of the children. It was understood the plan would be to live the children remain an equal period of time each year with both the father and mother—possibly to live one child with the mother six months while the second child is with father and a changing over of children for the next six months.

It was also understood the tentative plan provided that Rantoul should not be obliged to contribute in any way towards his wife's support.

The Judge's action followed a conference with Thomas W. Proctor, counsel for Mrs. Rantoul, and Thorndike Hunt, counsel for Rantoul. In the courtroom, when it happened that there was not one spectator, Hunt said:

"We are united in asking the court to continue this matter indefinitely in the hope and expectation that the parties can come to an agreement and settle the matter between themselves very shortly. Thus we hope to relieve the court of the necessity of passing upon the case."

The children are Mabel Lowell Rantoul, nine, and Harriet Charlotte Rantoul, seven.

Gaynor's Son to Wed Page's Niece Tonight

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Norman J. Gaynor, son of ex-Mayor Gaynor of New York, will marry Miss Bessie Page, daughter of the Rev. Mr. Page of Fairfax Courthouse, Va., and niece of Thomas Nelson Page, the novelist and Ambassador to Italy, at the Episcopal Church, Fairfax Courthouse, Va., tonight.

ASK FOR BILLARD WARRANTS

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission today asked United States District Attorney Wilson for indictments, under the compulsory testimony act, against Samuel Hemingway, president of the Second National Bank of New Haven, and Samuel Morehouse, an attorney, for their alleged refusal to testify concerning the relations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad with the Billard Company.

This is the first time that the compulsory testimony act has been invoked by the commission against recalcitrant witnesses since its approval in 1893. Heretofore the commission has used only civil procedure to procure testimony. The maximum penalty for violation of the act is $5,000 fine and one year in a penitentiary.

EXAMINE WITNESSES.

Examination of witnesses before the Federal Grand Jury was begun at once. Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord, Secretary George McGinty of the commission, A. S. May, treasurer of the New Haven, A. E. Clark, secretary of the New Haven, and a stenographer employed by the commission were among the witnesses.

Solicitor Folk wired Attorney Henry Goddard of New Haven asking if the promise that Henry V. Whipple, president of the Merchants' Bank of New Haven, and Edward E. Filed of New Haven, would testify meant that they would produce books and papers [illegible] to reveal the relations of the New Haven road [illegible].

"Unless Messrs. Whipple and Field will produce the papers we want," said Folk, "their promise to testify to avoid criminal prosecution is valueless, and I will at once ask for indictments against them."

Finley Goddard, counsel for Whipple and Field in a letter to Folk says:

COUNSEL'S STATEMENT.

"My clients, under protest and without conceding that either of them refused to answer any lawful questions, will, upon due notice, answer the questions, which they hitherto have declined to answer. My clients are constrained to submit and abandon their claimed rights and liberty wholly because of your threat of criminal prosecution and to relieve themselves from the burden of annoyance, trouble and expense, although they feel that your threatened action is unjust, arbitrary and tyrannical."

"In the surrender of Messrs. Whipple and Field to my demand that they testify in accordance with law or be criminally prosecuted," said Solicitor Folk, "there comes a new light on the situation and I am undetermined just now as to what action I shall take. I have not received formal notice that President Samuel Hemingway of the Second National Bank of New Haven and Samuel Morehouse, the other two witnesses who refused to testify, have decided to follow the example of Messrs. Whipple and Field, but I believe all four witnesses will testify eventually.

"BACKDOWN" OF DICTATOR WIRED BY O'SHAUGHNESSY

COXEY'S ARMY OFF TO WASHINGTON

MASSILLON, O., April 16.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey's second army of unemployed men started in its march to Washington today in a cold, drizzling rain. One hundred and fifty strong, with Coxey in the lead, the marchers started off toward Canton, the first stopping place. David Coxey, son of the general, went along as his father's aide de camp.

MAINE POLICE IN HUNT FOR SLAYER OF 17-YEAR-OLD BRIDE

NORWAY, Me., April 16.—Search for the slayer of Mrs. Ethel M. Cummings and a rigid investigation of the circumstances leading up to her death were started today after a coroner's jury had rejected the theory of suicide and reported a finding of murder.

Mrs. Cummings was only seventeen and a bride of fifteen months. She was found dead in the sitting room of her father's house in Albany, near here, with a gunshot wound in her head. A shotgun, which had been kept in the house, was found near the body.

The girl's body is said to have been found by her mother, Mrs. William Adams. Neighbors were called in and Mrs. Adams said she thought her daughter had committed suicide. She also said she believed Mrs. Cummings' mind had been unbalanced, thinking of the suicide of a neighbor a year ago.

Mrs. Cummings was married to Sherman Cummings of Groveton, Vt., in January, 1913, but had been living with her parents. She was to have joined her husband today at Bethel, Me., and her trunk was found partially packed. The theory of suicide was sent broadcast and accepted, but when a coroner's jury had been empanelled, evidence is said to have been introduced which showed that the young woman could not have ended her life in the manner stated and the jury reported she had met her death at the hands of some person unknown.

The girl's husband is expected to reach here today to assist in the investigation. It is thought he will be able to throw some light on the mystery. The police are looking to him to furnish a possible motive for the crime.

Coroner Albert P. Bassett and the medical examiner refused to discuss the action of the coroner's jury today. It is believed, however, they suspect who is responsible for the girl's death and are only waiting for evidence to corroborate their suspicions before ordering an arrest.

The gun with which the shooting was done is said to have been in the Adams household for several years and the tragedy has created a sensation in the countryside.

Decorate Capital with Suffrage Bills

HOW MANY DRINKS? Jury Answers for Woman AWARDS HER $3,500

NEW YORK, April 16.—The drinking of a brandy and soda, one cocktail and a third of a quart of champagne by a woman is not sufficient to "befuddle one," a jury in Federal Judge Mayer's court decided.

Mrs. Francis Fraser, a dressmaker and milliner, seeking to recover $25,000 damages for injuries received while a passenger on a Pennsylvania Railroad train, February 4, 1912, testified as to her libations on that trip. She was traveling with other dressmakers and milliners, and while in the dining car all partook of brandy, cocktails and champagne.

Suddenly the train came to a stop and Mrs. Frazer, according to her testimony, walked through the vestibuled cars to get her wraps, thinking her destination had been reached. She walked off the rear end of the last car and fell to the roadbed.

Physicians testified that her nervous system had been impaired as a result of the accident. The jury awarded her $3,500.

Crowd Opera House at the Tech Show

The Boston Opera House was filled this afternoon at the Tech show, "A Royal Johnnie." H. O. Whitney and J. P. Gardner as solo and toe dancers were given encores. F. FAMOUS JURIST VOICES PROTEST ON TOLL REPEAL

CINCINNATI, April 16.—Judge Lewis M. Hosea, formerly of the Superior Court of this city, in a letter to the Foreign Relations Committee of Congress, says:

"The extraordinary attitude of the President on the Panama free canal tolls question in coercing Congress to undo its former action asserting rights of the people incidental to ownership, to abandon those rights at the demand of a foreign power which contributed nothing to the building of the canal, yet has been admitted to a full and equal share in its interoceanic benefits, has precipitated an acute country-wide stage of discussion of the subject.

"He declares, substantially that it is a moral question; that the United States, having incautiously made a treaty with England by which it abandoned all incidental rights of ownership arising out of our construction of the canal at our sole expense, national honor requires us to live up to the bargain by accepting that interpretation of the treaty because England claims to have so understood it.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has decided a principle substantially identical with that involved in this discussion. There is, therefore, no moral question involved. The United States made no incautious or misleading agreement with England. There is in the treaty no surrender of any individual rights of the United States, as expressly recognized all rights of ownership in the United States, and even specifies control and management separately for mere emphasis."

TREATY NOT ON PANAMA, SAYS POINDEXTER

NEW YORK, April 16.—The following reply to Alexander Choffel by Senator Miles Poindexter has been given out by Mr. Choffel himself:

"You are correct in saying the language of the treaty (Hay-Pauncefote) is plain. It is still plainer as to fortifications—prohibiting them in express and peremptory terms. Notwithstanding that we are fortifying.

"Neither the Clayton-Bulwer nor the Hay-Pauncefote treaty has any bearing upon or application to the Panama Canal as it has been constructed.

"The Hay-Pauncefote treaty confessedly relates to the same subject matter as the Clayton-Bulwer treaty—namely, the Nicaragua canal, which Great Britain was to aid in promoting and protecting."

HIGH COURT TO GET BROOKLINE PAY RAISE WAR

Assessor Daniel J. Daley today announced his intention of petitioning the Supreme Court to decide whether the Brookline Selectmen had any right to refuse to grant the increase voted the Brookline police and firemen by the town meeting. Daley, who was attorney for the firemen and policemen, said:

"A motion was offered on the floor at the town meeting which was mandatory in that it compelled the Selectmen to grant wages as petitioned for by the firemen and policemen. This was ruled out of order, whereupon I offered a motion recommendatory in that it recommended that the appropriations should be increased to such a sum as would allow the Selectmen and Fire Commissioner to act.

"I shall surely, as a citizen, attempt to have the Supreme Court determine this question once and for all, so that we will know hereafter what votes are necessary to offer in order to bind elective town officials."

LATE NEWS BY CABLE

Brigand Musolino Goes Insane in Jail.

ROME, April 16.—An indication of the form of punishment that may be meted out, in case of conviction, to Porter Charlton, the young American charged with murdering his wife and throwing her body into Lake Como, is shown in the news that Musolino, the famous Calabrian brigand, ten years a prisoner, has gone insane. The brigand has been kept in solitude.

Hot Baths to Cure Gout.

PARIS, April 16.—A system of vascular gymnastics for the cure of gout has been devised by Doctors Dausset and Armand. They say gouty subjects should enter a bath heated to 3 degrees centigrade (98 Fahrenheit); the temperature should be steadily increased to 45 degrees (113°) and then reduced to 39 (88°) or 20 (78°).

Keeps Vow Not Wed; Now 102.

LONDON, April 15.—Robert Crichton has lived to 102 years and remained a bachelor. Crichton's long celibacy was due to a vow he and his brother and only sister made, never to marry. He doesn't smoke or drink.

Pope Receives Bruchesi.

ROME, April 16.—The Pope received in farewell audience Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal; Archbishop Howley of St. John's, Newfoundland; and Bishop Mardi of Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

Temperature at 122.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 16.—Medical authorities of this city are deeply interested in the case of a girl in a hospital at Kieff whose temperature is certified indisputably as 122 degrees Fahrenheit.

Queen Mary's China Exhibit.

LONDON, April 16.—Queen Mary has just arranged at Windsor Castle a museum of English china. It is in the private apartments, each variety arranged in a separate room, over the door of which the name of the pottery is inscribed.

Davis Trial Portponed.

ROME, April 16.—The trial of Lulu Davis, formerly wife of the multimillionaire, charged with misconduct with Naval Lieutenant Count Bellegarde, has been postponed eight months.

Woman Dies in Ambulance.

Mrs. Mary A. Croke, sixty-five, of No. 628 Bennington street, East Boston, was taken ill and collapsed in a doorway at No. 732 Washington street and died while being taken to the City Hospital. The death was probably due to natural causes.

BOSTON GRIEVES AT DEATH OF WIFE OF ARTIST LEAVITT

The late Mrs. William H. Leavitt from a striking painting by her husband.

Boston friends were shocked and grieved today at word of the sudden death of Mrs. William H. Leavitt, wife of the famous artist, at Newport.

Mrs. Leavitt was a doctor of music, having received the degree at Oberlin. She and Mr. Leavitt were married after Ruth Bryan, daughter of the Secretary of State, and his second wife, had divorced him.

Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt were visiting Mr. Leavitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron L. Leavitt, on Pelham street, Newport. Mrs. Leavitt was Gertrude Lepper, and her father is a Baptist clergyman in Paris.

Mr. Leavitt created a furore not long ago by showing his friends a startling portrait of his wife, painted by himself. It was one of the most striking of his works.

Hearsts Guests at McLean Dinner

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean entertained at the brilliant dinner and dance in their Massachusetts avenue home. Ninety guests attended the dinner and more than 150 additional came for the dancing. A number of New York society members attended.

Among the guests were the German Ambassador, the Spanish Ambassador and Madame Riano, the Attorney-General, Mrs. Cornelius Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Miss Lolta Robinson, the Belgian Minister and Madame Havenith, Madame Hisgen, Countess Gizycki, Vicount d'Axy, Baron de Nagel, Mr. Von Rath, Hon. Thomas Spring-Rice, Baron Kurt Von Lersner, Mr. Hanlel Von Haimhausen, Mr. and Mrs. Colville Barclay, Viscount Campden, Mrs. Marshall Field, Miss Mabel Gerry, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Hammond Oelrichs and Senator and Mrs. Warren.

Hunt Madman Who Killed Employer

NEW YORK, April 16.—Armed posses are searching the woods around Greenlawn, Long Island, for Francis Fowler, who murdered his employer, Frank P. Sammis, a wealthy farmer. Fowler attempted to kill Miss Mary Sammis, a sister of the slain man, but her quick wit saved her life. Opening a window, Fowler entered the bed chamber of Sammis and struck the sleeping man over the head with a club.

FORMER BOSTON MAN WINS, WEDS WIDOW IN HOUR

WOONSOCKET, April 16.—After an acquaintance and courtship that lasted less than an hour, Frederick Roche, a well-known mill man, who formerly lived in Boston, and Mrs. Lola Dithorz, a German tutor, were married in New York City and are today on their honeymoon.

Roche is superintendent of the Manville Mill. He is forty-eight, and was a widower with five children, the youngest of whom is sixteen.

Mrs. Dithorz was a widow and has one son, aged ten. She is a graduate of Berlin University and is said to have been wealthy at one time. She has been tutoring in New York during the last year. She is thirty-two.

The marriage resulted from a joke. Roche met Mrs. Dithorz in a New York store conducted by a friend of his. Mrs. Dithorz was about to sail for Germany. After Roche had been introduced to her by his friend, the latter said, jokingly, "I'm going to marry her some day."

"I will now," said Roche, also in fun.

After bantering for a few moments Roche became serious and in less than an hour he had proposed, was accepted and the couple were married.

FLAT LENS — TORIC LENS

The edges and reflections from the flat lenses can be very annoying.

The Toric Curved Lens eliminates these troubles. Its construction permits them to be set close to the eyes, thus the lashes sticking, affording protection from dust and flying particles and giving a very large range of clear vision.

Toric Lenses are known to give relief where flat lenses failed, on account of the curvature of the lens conforming to the shape of the eyeball.

CALL FOR BIG BOSTON HOME RULE MEETING

Thousands of Massachusetts friends of home rule today received circular letters inviting them to a conference in Boston to plan practical assistance to the Irish Parliamentary party in its great struggle. The conference will be held next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple. The call reads as follows:

"The friends of Ireland in Massachusetts will hold a conference at Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple, Boston, on Thursday, April 23, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

"The object of this conference is to formulate a plan so that every friend of Ireland in Massachusetts may have an opportunity to take some part in completing the glorious work of restoring Ireland's native Parliament.

"Massachusetts pledged at the last National Convention of the United Irish League of America $20,000. Of this amount $10,000 has been raised, leaving a balance of about $5,000 yet to be subscribed. We wish to make good our promise and to raise the remaining $5,000 before the final passage of the home rule bill.

"The effort of the many great reforms won by the Irish Parliamentary party in what a new Ireland has been created. We are within sight of the final triumph of the last great reform—home rule. The work of generations is about to be accomplished and we trust that you will interest yourself in doing your part in securing the great prize of justice and that you will be present at this meeting.

"If, however, it is impossible for you to be present you will materially assist the object of the meeting by making its purpose known to any friends who might be particularly inclined to send a subscription to the national treasurer to aid in the raising of this sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) mentioned above. All contributions of $1 or over will be acknowledged by the national treasurer.

"A recent contributor to the London Times writes that as a result of Mr. Asquith's determination to push the home rule bill through, he called on four of his business friends, got £1,000 from each, added another of his own, and sent the money to the Union Defence League for the defence of Ulster. That was his answer to the Prime Minister. It is the least that we may expect that every friend of Ireland who has not already contributed will do so now.

"As the secretary is anxious to have as complete a list as possible of those who will be present, will you kindly notify him of your intention as soon as convenient?

"Very truly yours,

"P. H. FITZPATRICK,
"National Treasurer, U. L. A. A.
"MICHAEL J. JORDAN,
"National Secretary, U. L. A. A."

PASTOR GAVE BENEFACTRESS SLEIGH RIDES

Admitting that he took the late Mrs. Mary J. Tourtelotte of Watertown, who gave him $7,500, on sleigh rides, the Rev. William S. Kelsey, former assistant pastor of Berkeley Temple, denied he ever influenced her to make him gifts. Presentation of evidence for the defence was resumed today in the suit brought by Mrs. Alice T. Sawyer of Watertown, Mrs. Tourtelotte's daughter, to recover the $7,500.

Mrs. Mary Hall, a niece of Mrs. Tourtelotte, testified that her aunt was an extraordinary woman mentally, determined and headstrong in character. She was so self-willed, Mrs. Hall said, she had to drop living with her. Mrs. Tourtelotte, however, was susceptible to influence by an appeal to her spiritual interests, in the opinion of Mrs. Hall.

PASTOR DISAPPROVED.

Dr. Flora H. Russell testified that she attended Mrs. Tourtelotte in 1903. She found her patient irritable and not of remarkable mentality.

The Rev. William A. Knight said he disapproved of Mrs. Tourtelotte's gifts to Berkeley Temple when he was pastor there, one of the reasons of his resignation being his disapproval of the $10,000 organ gift. He said he believed the provision that the church should pay Mrs. Tourtelotte $500 a year would be too great a drain.

Miss Minnie Sawyer, a grandchild of Mrs. Tourtelotte, broke down and cried on the witness stand while being examined by Attorney H. D. Richardson. Asked what she thought of her grandmother, she replied:

"Well, she was always complaining about something. She did not always say what her complaints were about and I didn't ask her."

Q.—What was the usual topic of conversation; matters of general interest? A.—No, it was usually about the neighbors. She "knocked" them and usually wound up by saying she had few friends.

Q.—Did your grandmother tell you Mr. Kelsey was looking out for her interests? A.—She did. She told me she brought her flowers and invited her to his house on holidays, and that he had asked her to come home with him. She usually dressed up when Mr. Kelsey was going to call. On Sundays she used to come to our house for dinner very often.

Q.—Did she ever "knock" your grandfather and your mother? A.—She never complained to me.

Q.—Did she have any old-time friends that called? A.—No.

Q.—Did she have any friends? A.—A man and his wife, who lived next door, were very kind to her, but she knocked them all the time.

Q.—Were you fond of your grandmother? A.—No, not particularly. I didn't like the way she knocked my father and my friends. I suppose I liked her, but I didn't like that.

SANG HYMN TO WIDOW.

Q.—Did you ever hear Mr. Kelsey sing to your grandmother when he came to the house? A.—Yes, once; he sang a hymn.

Q.—Did you sing for her? A.—No, I can't sing. I sometimes played for her.

Mrs. Mary Hall told of Mrs. Tourtelotte telling her of lending $2,000 to a Mr. Sheldon, an undertaker, who afterward became a minister, for some enterprise at Asbury Park.

BILLY SUNDAY IS PRAISED BY PASTOR ODELL

Billy Sunday, the evangelist, was praised by the Rev. Willis P. Odell at the New England conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which was resumed in Malden today. The Rev. Mr. Odell said:

"Stagings are still up on the Church of God. Only the original Architect knows what beauty will appear when it stands forth completed. It will be of the choicest materials, stanch and grand.

"Billy Sunday, whom men are laughing to scorn, has risen to be an evangel of God's power to raise men to a point where sin cannot decide them. There are thousands of men so raised; religion is from God himself, and the practicability of its power to bring a man from the base things to the pure is absolute."

Business Men of New England Cold

George H. Willcockson of the Retail Credit Men's Association, speaking at the monthly dinner of the association at the Thorndike, said: "The New England business man is too cold in business. The warmth of the Westerner is more to be desired. The foundation of all credit is character, and a knowledge of human nature is a credit man's best asset."

LEGISLATIVE FIRE BOARD VISITS SCENE OF ALLSTON TRAGEDY

Inspection of the ruins of the Melvin Apartments in Allston, where eight lost their lives Tuesday morning, was begun by the three members of the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs who make up the sub-committee on fire hazards.

The committee was under the guidance of Building Commissioner Patrick O'Hearn. It includes Representatives Lawler of Ward 24, Wilson of 25 and Benfield, ex-Mayor of Newton.

The object of the visit is to see what changes are necessary in the laws as to second class construction. Representative Lawler has already declared that he thinks automatic sprinklers would have saved the lives lost at the Allston fire.

The State police, under the direction of Deputy Chief Neal, continued their investigation. An inquest will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock in room 1 at the State House, at which Deputy Neal will preside. All phases of the fire will be gone into and subpoenas have been issued to all the residents of the block in which the fire occurred.

EIGHTH BODY FOUND.

It is believed today that the eighth body found in the ruins was that of Miss Ellen Hazie, the actress. She had been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Arthur G. Hartwell, and had been missing since the fire.

Miss Edith Thompson, a store detective, has charged that she notified police headquarters ten minutes before the apparatus was summoned.

Officials at headquarters denied that any call had been received in advance of the bell alarm and stated Miss Thompson must have mistaken the place she called or been in error as to the time when she sent her message.

The official records of the fire department show that the first alarm was turned in at 7.57½ A. M. No notification was received at fire headquarters in advance of the box alarm. At police headquarters Deputy Superintendent Cain and Patrolman Keeny were on duty on the early morning shift and both are certain that there was no notification in advance of the sounding of the bell alarm.

MAYOR ORDERS CANVASS.

Mayor Curley has ordered District Chief Madison and Building Commissioner O'Hearn to begin today a canvass of the apartment houses in the Allston district. Mayor Curley said:

"They can stay there a month, if necessary, get a list of the houses and find out just what conditions are."

Curley himself viewed several houses in the district, finding one without fire escapes.

ON PLAN OF KILN.

"The Melvin apartment house was built on the plan of a brick kiln, with a wall of brick and cement outside and filled with thin partitions, air and elevator shafts, so that the flames 'drew' well inside. With the wooden floors, walls and furniture, there was enough good fuel to keep the fire well fed."

Such was the comparison made today by those who have studied the second class construction, as it applied to the Melvin.

The building was of five stories, brick walled, with the first story only with an extra thickness for ornamentation purposes. The exterior walls of the building were twelve inches thick.

The partitions, walls between the different apartments, halls, etc., inside, were merely thin-plastered wooden sheeting easily destroyed and inflammable.

The elevator shaft in the centre of the building, reaching from the basement to the roof, was the flue through which the fire gained access to the interior of the building.

Each suite consisted of a dining room, kitchen, living room and bed room, the kitchen in each case being of the kitchenette size. There was in addition a bath room in each suite and each of the rooms of every suite had a window facing outward.

These suites on the five floors were arranged as follows: two front corner suites, two rear corner suites and a fifth suite, extending between the two front suites in the centre of the building.

In this front centre suite a balcony five feet, six inches wide and thirty-four feet, four inches long, with two railing partitions, extended along the front, except the top story.

EXIT A DEATH TRAP.

Entering the front door the hallway extended four feet wide back to the elevator shaft. The five feet, six inch corridor is around it. The lateral hallway on each floor in front of the elevator, and terminating in the fire escapes at the sides of the house, is five feet, six inches wide.

The corridor around the elevator containing the stairs is five feet, six inches wide, and extends from the first floor to the roof. The back stairway between the two rear corner suites extended from the basement to the top floor but not to the roof. Only a person wishing to gain the roof from the top floor must go from the rear main stairway to the elevator stairway which in the case of the Melvin and in many all such cases where fire starts in the basement, is a flume of flame which spells death to all who enter.

In the centre of the rear of the building was the third set of fire escapes which could be reached from the kitchenettes and from the bath room windows of the two rear suites on each floor. There were three means of egress from the two front corner suites to the two escapes on the sides. The front suites on each floor permitted the occupants to climb from any window of the rooms in these suites to the balcony on the front.

On the other hand, every inch of available space under the law had been added to the cubic foot space of the living apartments and as has been stated all the interior construction of the building was of wood covered over for the sake of ornament with a thin coating of plaster.

Once the fire filled the elevator well and flames and smoke choked access by this way, they were left the rear and front stairways and the fire escapes. When the fire broke through the elevator corridor and prevented egress by these two stairways the chances of escape were narrowed down to the fire escapes. The rear stairs were three feet wide to the top. The elevator shaft stairs were four feet, "in the clear" to the roof. The floor timbers were two by nines inches and varied from ten to twelve feet, being bridged.

A Word to Flat Dwellers

If you live in an apartment building of over three stories WITHOUT FIRE ESCAPES, notify the City Editor of the AMERICAN. The AMERICAN proposes to see that the PRESENT laws regarding construction and fire escapes are ENFORCED and will work to have new and more stringent laws passed to SAFEGUARD the lives of flat dwellers.

FIRE ALARM

How to Sound One

LEARN NOW

Do you know how to ring in a fire alarm?

A man at the Allston fire didn't, and eight lives were lost.

This is the RIGHT way:

First, be SURE there is a fire.

Go to the nearest box. If you don't know where your nearest fire alarm box is located, FIND OUT TODAY.

Open the box by turning the handle on it.

This rings a bell, but does NOT send in the alarm.

You must PULL DOWN THE HOOK inside the box.

Pull the hook down as far as you can, then LET GO.

FIGHT REPEAL OF BUILDING EXTENSION LIMITS AT HEARING

Repeal of the present building extension limits in Boston, in view of the Allston fire horror, was fought at a meeting of the fire hazard committee.

Ex-Fire Commissioner Charles H. Cole declared that East Boston is now threatened with a conflagration which would not only wipe out the property, but cause an enormous loss of life because the people could not get out.

He contended that East Boston in twenty minutes away from the second alarm apparatus and thirty minutes away from third alarm apparatus. He characterized as absolutely unsound the argument of those in favor of the repeal of the ordinance that a brick building will burn quicker than a wooden building. It is the wooden interior, he said, with plaster and furniture that burns in a brick building, and he contended that he never saw brick walls burning.

Find Sick Lynn Boy Asleep in Rainstorm

Dressed only in his night gown, without shoes or hat, Irving Harlow, the eight-year-old son of Rufus F. Harlow of No. 26 Union court, Lynn, left his sick bed and walked several blocks while in a sound sleep in a pelting rainstorm. He was found lying asleep in a doorway at No. 333 Essex street.

CRUELTY CLAIM WINS LOVELESS WIFE DIVORCE

Is it cruel of a husband to tell his wife "in various ways and at various times" that he no longer loves her?

Judge Raymond, in the Dedham divorce court, apparently answered the question when he granted a decree nisi to Mrs. Stella M. Fiske of Brookline. Mrs. Fiske accused Laurence H. Fiske, a Boston business man, of cruel and abusive treatment, and in her petition she said that this consisted in "his telling her in various ways and at various times that he no longer cared for her."

"I was tenderly reared," said Mrs. Fiske. "I was caused to suffer mentally and physically and I was made ill. My feelings were wounded to such an extent that I feared my health would be permanently affected if I were compelled to live longer with him."

Judge Raymond also allowed the wife alimony. The amount was not stated. The Fiskes were married July 3, 1895, at Louisville, Ky., and have lived in Brookline since.

"THE DRUNKARD"

This is a plain story of domestic tragedy, paralleled, in some degree at least, in all too many American homes today. A young and inexperienced girl falls in love. She knows her fiance takes an occasional drink. She does not know the habit is inherited—and his mother keeps the secret. Read this story in Cosmopolitan Magazine for May and you will wonder if a complete knowledge of the circumstances would have made any difference—or if it ever will.

Dorchester Club Holds Annual Show

Members of the Dorchester Club and their friends filled Jordan Hall to witness the club's presentation of its musical comedy and minstrel show. The program was divided into two parts, a musical sketch entitled, "In Camp With Company B, Gingham, Mass," and a one-act minstrel show.

The army of stray cats that infested T. Wharf is migrating nightly to the new $1,000,000 fish pier at South Boston and the evening procession is furnishing much amusement to the habitues of the waterfront.

Hospital "Junket" Protested by Swig

Simon Swig, a member of the board of trustees of hospitals for consumptives, has written Governor Walsh and the Executive Council urging them to veto an appropriation sought by the board of which he is a member, to pay the expenses of four superintendents of State sanitariums to a convention at Washington. He says: "The proposed trip is a junket, pure and simple. It should not be tolerated. No benefit has been derived from these trips in the past; and if there is benefit, one of the superintendents could go and make a report of the doings to his colleagues." Swigg is in conflict with his fellow trustees.

Black Hand Trio Assassinate Grocer

CHICAGO, April 16.—Louis Milone, a well-to-do Italian grocer, was shot and killed by three men, believed to be "Black Handers," while walking along a street today. The men escaped.

Can't Beat "TIZ" When Feet Hurt

"TIZ" for sore, tired, puffed-up, sweaty, calloused feet or corns.

You can be happy-footed just like me. Use "TIZ" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, smelly feet. "TIZ" and only "TIZ" takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "TIZ" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "TIZ" is grand. "TIZ" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause sore, inflamed, aching, sweaty, smelly feet.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never going to bother or make you limp any more.

Pays $65,942,500 for New York Bonds

NEW YORK, April 16.—By an exceedingly narrow margin, a syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. has obtained the whole of the issue of $65,000,000 of city bonds bearing interest at four and one-half per cent. The syndicate paid $65,942,500, having bid 101.45 for "the whole or none" of the issue.

ASTOR GAINING, HOPES TO WED ON DATE FIXED

NEW YORK, April 16.—Hope is now expressed that Vincent Astor will convalesce so rapidly that his wedding to Helen Dinsmore Huntington, his childhod playmate, set for April 30, will not have to be postponed, as at first feared.

Miss Huntington, at whose parents' home at Staatsburg Mr. Astor was stricken, continues to aid the doctors in their care of the patient.

A statement from the Huntington home says:

"Mr. Astor has had an abscess in the lower part of his right lung. This has now discharged into the bronchi. His condition has greatly improved. His temperature has been normal for the past thirty-six hours. Everything seems to be progressing satisfactorily."

Mass Troops for Chinese Uprising

SHANGHAI, April 16.—Tomorrow is the date set by the revolutionary followers of Dr. Sun Yat Sen for a general uprising in this city. This information was given to the military police today by natives who were arrested in a series of raids which lasted all night. The authorities are massing troops in the city and suburbs and machine guns have been planted before the government buildings, the barracks and the arsenal.

End of Strike Opens British Factories

YORK, England, April 16.—With the return to work today of the bulk of the Yorkshire miners, who went on strike two weeks ago in support of their demands for a minimum wage, the operators released vast quantities of coal which had been stored up for four of a prolonged struggle. Many idle factories were thus enabled to announce the immediate resumption of work.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. Griffith, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."—Mrs. Ada Wilt, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

For over thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

100 Society Girls in 'Petticoat Ranch'

The Junior Charity Club's dramatics, "Petticoat Ranch," given this afternoon and Friday evening at Jordan Hall, promises to draw the largest attendance of society folk of the season. Over a hundred society girls and young matrons will take part, in all imaginable roles from Louise Ordway's "Earl of Harcourt" to Mrs. J. C. White and Mrs. Earl Martin as "Nip" and "Tuck."

The scene of the "play" is laid somewhere in the far and famous West. To judge from the scenery, it is about on the border line between Texas and the United States. The feature dances partake of the atmosphere from "The Drill of the Texas Rangers" to Constance Jones' Spanish solo dances.

Emperor's Illness Alarms Austrians

PARIS, April 16.—The ill health of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria is exciting the utmost alarm in court circles, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Excelsior today. The eighty-three-year old monarch contracted a cold several days ago which had rapidly become worse.

Sardine Canning Season On in Maine

EASTPORT, Me., April 16.—The sardine canning season is open on the Maine coast. Over fifty sardine factories in Eastport, Lubec and on the neighboring coast, employing over 15,000 people, are now ready to take fish.

LABOR UNIONS OF PAWTUCKET TO CRUSH 'RING'

PAWTUCKET, April 15.—The united labor unions of Pawtucket have begun a fight to smash the corruption exposed here by the AMERICAN last Sunday.

The AMERICAN showed how a corrupt "ring" has ruled Pawtucket with an iron hand. The labor men took action today when a committee of three went to Bernard Keenan of the License Commission with some very pointed questions.

The License Commission, it is charged, is active in the work of the "ring." The labor men went to the commission to ask "Why is Hand's beer, made in Pawtucket, not allowed to be sold here?"

The big Hand brewery pays heavy taxes, it's not one glass of its beer can be bought in Pawtucket, it is charged. The brewery is a union shop, and union men are friendly to it. Furthermore, the ruling "ring" is hostile to labor in every way.

The committee got no satisfaction from Keenan. He sent them to T. W. Briden, who he said was chairman of the License Commission. Mr. Briden promised to call a special meeting of the commission for April 28 to answer any questions they might ask.

The committee, consisting of Theodore Malo, president of the Building Trades Council; Joseph Powers, president of the Pawtucket Central Labor Union, and Joseph Grey, went away disappointed. After consulting with other labor leaders, however, they decided to force action at once.

"We believe the commission is simply trying to put us off, and there is no need of waiting till April 28 for answers to our questions. We propose to see them again tomorrow, and demand satisfaction."

YOU CAN'T BRUSH OR WASH OUT DANDRUFF

The Simplest and Quickest Way Is to Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and every one notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

FITZ GIVES REAL STORY OF HIS RULE TONIGHT

Former Mayor Fitzgerald will tonight, at the Boston City Club, carry the war into the camp of those who attack his four years' administration under the new charter. In spite of his invitation, he is afraid that there will be present no member of the "Fin. Com." to face him, or to ask him questions.

The management at the City Club has prepared to accommodate a capacity crowd of members who have signified their intention of hearing the real story of the "Fitz. rule" at City Hall. The seats at the banquet tables were signed for five days after the announcement was made the former Mayor would speak.

Former Mayor Fitzgerald is expected to pay his compliments in no undecided fashion to his successor in the mayoral chair and to take up the declaration "the outgoing Mayor left the treasury as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard."

Radcliffe Girls to Bar Men from Shows

The Student Government Society of Radcliffe has decreed that the vaudeville performance just given in the Agassiz House Theatre will be the last to which men will be admitted and probably the last for which outside entertainers will be engaged.

Harvard Relics Dug Up Under Old Elms

Interesting relics of the early days of Harvard were uncovered by workmen digging out the ancient elms in the Harvard College yard. The spades brought to light a part of the cornerstone of the original Stoughton Hall, built in 1699, and also a Spanish coin bearing the arms of Charles III. of Spain and dated 1778.

Scent Plot to Seize Throne of Persia

BERLIN, April 16.—Information is said to have reached Berlin that a fresh plot is brewing for the seizure of the throne of Persia. The scheme, which is reported to have been fomented in Russia, aims at again placing the ex-Shah, Mohammed Ali, who abdicated in July, 1909, on the throne.

Boy Killed by Toy Balloon.

PROVIDENCE, April 16.—Rolando Ciangitti, nine, accidentally swallowed a toy rubber balloon while playing with it. He died ten minutes later.

Your Grandmother's Remedy for Purifying the Blood

And Renovating the System in the Springtime Ask for Sulpherb Tablets.

What was grandmother's unexcelled remedy? Haven't you heard of it? Yes, you have! It was sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses. The main trouble with it was its nauseous taste.

A modern method gives the cream of tartar and sulphur into a sugar-coated tablet and mixes them with herbs, roots, etc., making a wonderful tonic blood purifier and system cleanser.

Just try Sulpherb Tablets (not sulphur tablets), but Sulpherb—remember the name—and get the tablets in sealed tubes at 50c per tube.

Grown-up people and children who don't feel well, who are constipated or sluggish, or who have pimples, boils, carbuncles, ulcers and the like, can soon rid the system of these impurities by taking this good old-fashioned remedy in modern form. Their action satisfies or money is refunded by the Prescription Product Company, Dayton, Ohio. A free trial sent to any address. Buy of any well-stocked druggist.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS AGAINST TOLLS REPEAL

LOWELL, April 16.—Congressman John Jacob Rogers, speaking before the Builders' Exchange here, discussed the question of Panama tolls and advocated the exemption of American ships from paying those tolls, he said in part:

"During the past two or three days I have talked with a good many people here in Lowell about the Panama tolls question. I have found that in many cases the point of view entertained may be illustrated by the following little incident:

"A shore-man put in three days' work about the grounds of one of his customers. At the end of the third day he presented a bill for $15.

"'Why is this, Sam?' said his employer. 'Didn't you put in just three days' work?'

"'Yes, sir,' said Sam.

"'And isn't your regular charge $2 a day?'

"'Yes, sir,' answered Sam again.

"'Well, then,' retorted the employer, 'how did you figure it out that I owed you $15?'

"'I didn't figure it out, boss,' answered Sam. 'I just settled on it.'

"It was necessary to establish by law the rules and regulations to govern the Canal Zone and the use of the canal itself; accordingly the Panama Canal Act was introduced into Congress. Voluminous hearings, covering over 2,000 pages, were held in committee.

"As early as July 8, 1912—six weeks before the bill became law—Great Britain sent to the government of the United States a formal protest against the exemption clause. Congress passed the bill in spite of the British protest. The British point of view and the reasons therefor were just as fully before the country at that time as they are today. The bill should stand, and the exemption should be maintained."

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The first efforts towards the organization of the Metropolitan Automobile Association, the news of which was published exclusively in the Sunday AMERICAN, were taken at a meeting held at one of the leading social clubs of Boston on Monday evening last, when a temporary organization was perfected and Congressman Samuel L. Powers was elected president with ex-Mayor Hatfield of Newton as vice-president. It is understood that the final organization meeting will be held this evening, at the close of which its aims and objects will be made public.

Los Angeles will send a "Special De Luxe" excursion of automobile men to the Indianapolis 500-mile race that promises to outrival the famous "Howdy Special" which made the trip from Los Angeles to Phoenix, Ariz., with the desert racers last Fall. The fact that at least four of the most popular coast drivers will compete in the May 30 grind on the Motor Speedway is the prime reason for the big turnout on the part of the coast fans. Then, too, many are intending to make the Eastern trip serve as a vacation, so that reservations for the special train promises to break all records.

The second annual banquet of the Massachusetts Automobile Operators' Association will be held at the New American House, Saturday evening. This occasion is looked forward to with great anticipation by the members and their friends. A large number of guests have been invited among whom are Governor David I. Walsh, Mayor Curley, Hon. Curtis Guild, President Lewis R. Spear and Secretary James Fortescue of the A. A. A., District Attorney Pelletier, J. R. Coolidge, Jr., Sherman Whitnie, Hon. J. Albert Brackett, Colonel William D. Sohier, Hon. C. L. Johnson and John A. Coulthurst. Many prominent men in public life and automobile circles will also be present. The committee has secured many novel and valuable souvenirs, which will make the evening long to be remembered by those who have the pleasure of attending. The committee of arrangements is as follows: W. P. G. Pratt, chairman; Donald M. Johnson, secretary; Thomas Palfrey, treasurer; Con. J. Bailey, Michael Geary, James Travers and Carl Richardson.

EARLY TO BED FOR KITTY GORDON

Exercise, Moderate Eating and Cold Baths Her Secret, of Beauty.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

What Kitty Gordon, who plays so fascinatingly the role of Pretty Mrs. Smith at the Cort Theatre, doesn't know about styles, colors, lines and beauty isn't really worth knowing. This one might imagine before talking with her, because her gowns are certainly dreams, and she's one of the most beautiful women on the stage.

I talked with her between the acts while her maid was draping one of her exquisite creations about her perfect figure. And would you like to know the secret of that figure? It's walking, plain simple walking, and swimming when swimming is possible. Never does Miss Gordon ride when it's possible to walk. She even walks home after the theatre nights after the performance. Her automobile, in which her maid is riding, keeps within calling distance, but Miss Gordon declares that she has never been annoyed in Boston, no matter how late she has been returning, apparently alone, from the theatre.

"Beauty secrets? Ah, but they wouldn't be secrets if I told," she laughed. Turning to her husband, she asked: "What ARE my beauty secrets, dear?"

Her handsome husband beamed down upon her and answered that as long as it was a woman's "secret," it wouldn't hurt to tell. Here are her "No late suppers, moderate eating, a great deal of exercise, cold baths and early rising.

You wouldn't think an actress would like the early rising part, but pretty Kitty Gordon does. Every morning, no matter how late she has been retiring the night before, she breakfasts at 9:30.

There was another beauty secret which she declared was the best of all, and that's cold cream.

SLEEP AND EXERCISE.

"Plenty of sleep and plenty of exercise are the greatest youth preservers I know," said Miss Gordon. "If one would be beautiful they must be youthful, in appearance, at least. Youth is what we all look for in the woman called beautiful, for its the fresh, unfaded object always that is considered the beautiful one.

"Of course, no matter how young one might be, if they were not healthy they couldn't be beautiful. There is no snipper of beauty quite so fatal as ill health. So, in order to keep young and healthy there must be plenty of good, vigorous exercise, plenty of fresh air and plenty of good, sound, wholesome sleep and plenty of good cold water, both inside and out.

"Styles? Some of them are atrocious. Up to about three months ago they were beautiful. The clinging garments which show the lines of a woman's figure are beautiful, but these new styles, sticking out where they should stick in and all these new bunches and bustles hide all the beautiful lines a woman may have.

"The lines are the things every woman should consider in gowning. Every woman can't adopt the same styles. She may have her things made after the same model, but she must make that model over to suit her own figure and her own personality.

"A safe guide for every woman when she chooses her gown is to have it match her eyes in color, especially for the day time gowns. For the evening gowns, colors to show up her coloring must be selected. I adhere absolutely to the grays, blues and browns for the street and wear brighter colors for evening.

"But a beautiful figure is a woman's greatest asset. To keep that figure beautiful, or to make it beautiful if it is not naturally so, should be her aim. It makes as artist of her and the more of an artist a woman is the more beautifully will she mould her figure—for it is all in her power. Exercise, diet and right thinking will do it. It is impossible to keep a good figure without exercise.

INACTIVITY TO BLAME.

"Nearly every child has a good figure because it is active. Inactivity is the cause of poor figures as well as poor health.

"The new dances? Yes, they certainly keep one slim if one dances enough. They are pretty to watch but hard to do, and unless done perfectly are anything but pretty. If we could only have open-air dancing in the Winter, where we could get the exercise as well as the fresh air, it would develop a wonderfully healthy race.

"A suffragist? Am I a suffragist, dear?" she asked prettily, turning to her husband. Then before he could answer she remembered and said, "Yes, oh, yes. I'm going to be a guest of honor at a suffragist tea on the 24th.

"The women of San Francisco are the most Parisian-like of all American women. The reason for this may be that they go directly to Paris for their styles and are not hampered with the New York and Chicago versions of the styles. The New York women are wonderfully smart and your Boston woman, too, but they are not smart in the same sense as are the French."

Burgoyne Relics Are Lost in Fire

GREAT NECK, L. I., April 16.—Relics of General John Burgoyne, who fought in the Revolution, were destroyed in a fire which burned the home of his great-grandson, Stephen H. Burgoyne, at Elm Point. The fire was first seen by neighbors, who warned the Burgoyne family and their servants in time to permit them to escape. Mrs. Burgoyne lost all her jewelry.

Hair Grafting Is Surgeon's Latest

NEW YORK, April 16.—"Grafting hair," said Professor H. Morestin of Paris at the International Surgical Congress, "is attainable either by free transplantation or by means of a fragment, this last method being much more preferable, and even the only one to be recommended for an important grafting. By this means the eyebrow, and even the mustache, may be restored."

O'Meara Promotes Three Reservemen

In a general order issued by Police Commissioner O'Meara, Reservemen Nicholas H. Prempas and Richard J. Dwyer of the Lagrange street station and James D. Sullivan of the Jamaica Plain station were promoted to the rank of patrolmen. They will remain at their present stations.

Hooper Renominated by Tennessee G. O. P.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 16.—The Republican State Convention unanimously renominated Ben W. Hooper for a third term as Governor. Judge Sam C. Williams, an independent, was renominated for the Supreme Court.

Coolidge Calls for 'Cleanup Week' in Business District

"Boston's business district needs a cleanup week," says J. Randolph Coolidge, president of the Chamber of Commerce. "Citizens who think the residential portions of the city, the tenements and suburban homes are the only sections of Greater Boston where the brush and broom are necessary are much mistaken. A much greater sum of money is lost each year through fires in the shopping districts and among office buildings than in all other localities. A large part of this destruction of property is due to carelessness in disposing of inflammable rubbish."

Goes to Burial and Finds Mother Dead

Policeman T. D. Carmichael of the Back Bay station has just returned from Haddock, C. B., where he took the body of his wife's mother, Mrs. Sarah Leaver, for burial. On arriving in the village of Haddock he was told his own mother had died there the day before. A joint funeral service was held.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Dolly: When my scalp is itchy I use a scalp and hair tonic which can be made at home for little cost by adding 1 ounce cologne (get from your drug store), to ½ pint alcohol; then ½ pint water. This gives a full pint of a very superior tonic. Rubbing a little into the scalp twice a week quickly and permanently relieves irritation, overcomes dandruff and corrects faulty condition of the scalp. The continued use of quinwon tonic restores the former lustre and soft fluff to faded, lifeless hair and insures an abundant and beautiful growth.

Worried: Here is a harmless and highly satisfactory way to banish superfluous hair. Make a paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread on hairy surface and in two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left smooth and hairless. Have a package of delatone handy and you can keep your skin free from ugly hairs.

Frances: When your eyes smart and ache, try this harmless and very excellent eyewash: Into 1 pint clear water put 1 ounce eyebalm (dropping 2 or 3 drops of this in each eye relieves smart, strain or ache. It also strengthens tired muscles and banishes granulated lids, using it morning and evening after a hot application to dull, listless eyes.

Miserable: Here is a simple formula for relief from over-fatness and a genuine feeling of misery. Into 4½ pints hot water dissolve 4 ounces parmelia. Take of this 1 tablespoonful 3 times a day. This parmelia treatment is gradual and positive in its action and does not require dieting or vigorous exercising. When the weight is sufficiently reduced the figure will be plump and the skin smooth and clear.

Nad: Here is a very fine lotion for cleansing and beautifying the skin. Dissolve 2 ounces spermol white (get from druggist) in 1 pint witch hazel or hot water and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply to face, neck and arms and rub lightly until it vanishes. This is invisible and imparts an exquisite tint and velvety smoothness to the skin. The use of this spermol lotion will remove the oily, sallow, unhealthy color and add a touch of refined elegance to the daintiest complexion.

Mrs. A. T. B.: No woman who prizes her hair will use soap, which, because of its very nature, makes the hair stringy, brittle and unmanageable. Try canthrox—just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and rub briskly on your head at the hair and scalp. This makes an abundance of rich, cleansing lather that is very soothing to tender, itchy scalps. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean, and each strand of hair will be soft, glistening and full of health. Canthrox shampoos are splendid for correcting unnatural conditions—excessive oiliness, dryness or profuse dandruff.

Julia: The pimply, blotchy condition of your skin is due to accumulated poisons. Take the following old-fashioned blood-cleanser and beautifier and this unsightliness will vanish: Into ½ pint alcohol put 1 ounce kargeon (which you get from the drug store) and ½ ounce sugar, then add hot water to make a full pint. A tablespoonful 3 times a day is the dose. This tonic acts gently on the organs of elimination and thus increases your appetite and assists you to get the full strength-giving value of your food and tones the entire system and fortifies it against disease.

Mrs. Jack: Wrinkles and fine lines are easily removed with almolein cream-jelly, formed as follows: Into ½ pint water put 1 ounce almolein and 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Let stand until entirely dissolved. Cleanse the skin and dry thoroughly before using. For wrinkles, apply freely and massage gently the long way of the creases. This treatment stimulates the atrophied tissues and they soon resume their normal condition. When this is done the wrinkles or lines will have vanished. As a skin cleanser and complexion rejuvenator an almolein cream-jelly is not equaled, and its use not only restores the refined loveliness of youth, but protects it against the ravages of time.

WHITMAN SEES PLOT TO CLEAR BECKER IN GUNMAN CONFESSION

Clancy Contradicted on "Dago Frank's" Confession

Warden Clancy of Sing Sing, in a statement in Albany on Tuesday, said: "Ten days ago 'Dago Frank' told me of the plan to kill 'Dollar John' Langar. Frank said to me: 'If Sam Paul had not been with 'Dollar John' he would have been croaked.'"

Father William E. Cashin, prison chaplain, who was present when Cirofici gave his confession, early Monday, said: "Cirofici mentioned 'Dollar John' only in a casual way. He did not tell of a plot to kill 'Dollar John' as was reported in New York newspapers. I was present throughout the conference."

Miss Mary Cirofici, sister of the gunman, said: "My brother cautioned me not to mention names. I will say, however, that he did not confess that he was implicated in a plot to kill anyone."

District Attorney Whitman, said: "It seems to me that the purpose of obtaining the confession from 'Dago Frank' was a desire on the part of some one to help Becker."

Warden Clancy admits that he did not notify his superiors in Albany of Cirofici's statements concerning "Dollar John" Langar, and the plot to kill the gambler, until one hour before "Dago Frank" was executed. The confession "ten days before" was suppressed.

Why? In whose interest was "Dago Frank's" story of the plot to kill Langar withheld.

NEW YORK, April 16.—District Attorney Whitman learned today from an authoritative source that the confession of "Dago Frank" Cirofici was inspired by interests exceedingly friendly to the once-convicted policeman. It was further learned by Mr. Whitman that much of the information alleged to have been obtained by Warden Clancy an hour before the execution was, in truth, parts of statements obtained from the gunmen days before.

An anonymous letter received at the District Attorney's office from Sing Sing prison and signed "A Keeper" made the charge that an official of the prison approached Cirofici several days before the execution and pleaded with him for nearly an hour to make a statement that would clear Becker.

The writer of the letter claims to have overheard the conversation between the official and the gunmen and gives in detail the replies made by "Dago Frank." These do not support the statements contained in the eleventh hour confession.

"My investigation has convinced me more strongly than ever," said Mr. Whitman, "that Cirofici was not in condition, either physically or mentally, to have made a direct statement of details such as have been attributed to him. From what I can learn, many questions were asked him to which he either nodded assent or dissent. This I know to be the fact in connection with the reference to Becker."

ARREST WITNESS.

Karl Dresner, who was an eleventh hour witness before Supreme Court Justice Goff in the final effort of the four gunmen slayers of Herman Rosenthal to obtain a new trial, is under arrest after confessing himself a perjurer in a sworn statement to District Attorney Whitman.

Justice Goff last Saturday denounced the testimony of Dresner and three others as worthless and unreliable. The prosecutor promised he would investigate the source of the testimony.

Hearing this, Dresner appeared voluntarily at Mr. Whitman's office a few hours after the prosecutor had succeeded in having May 6 tentatively fixed as the day for beginning the second trial of Police Lieutenant Becker, convicted with the gunmen but granted a new trial by the State Court of Appeals.

Dresner was examined sharply by Mr. Whitman and after signing a statement in which he admitted that he had told many lies on the stand in the final effort to save the gunmen, was arraigned before a committing magistrate and locked up in the Tombs in default of bail for a hearing before the Grand Jury. In court he pleaded guilty to a charge of perjury.

ADMITS FALSE AFFIDAVIT.

In his affidavit, one of several sworn statements which prompted Justice Goff to consider the gunmen's counsel's plea for a new trial and in testimony before the Justice, Dresner told of having seen the gray wonder car on the morning of the murder.

He said he saw Sam Shepps on the running board.

Several nights before that he testified he had seen Jack Rose, "Bridge" Webber and others near another restaurant and had heard Rose urge Webber to "put it over" on Rosenthal, as the gambler was leaving the restaurant. Dresner's apparent purpose was to show that others than the gunmen were Rosenthal's slayers.

In his statement to Whitman, Dresner said he was not near the scene of the murder; did not see Shepps and Rose nor Webber; did not overhear Rose urge Webber to kill Rosenthal; and that his testimony before Justice Goff was known by himself to be untrue.

District Attorney Whitman is said to regard Dresner's confession as significant in connection with Becker's coming trial. It had been reported to him that both Dresner and another witness who testified before Justice Goff Saturday, were prospective witnesses for Becker.

Dresner has refused to talk over that phase of the case with the prosecutor it was stated, but Mr. Whitman let it be known that he was content to have Dresner remain in the Tombs for awhile to think it over before taking him before the Grand Jury.

DRESNER DEPOSITION CONTRADICTING FORMER STORY OF SHOOTING

City and County of New York, ss.

I, Carl Dresner, being duly sworn, do depose and say:

I made certain affidavits in the law office of Wahle & Kringel of this city, on the 10th day of April, 1914, and I testified before Mr. Justice Goff of the Supreme Court on the 11th day of April, 1914, substantially as follows:

That I stood in Forty-third street, near Sixth avenue, on the morning of July 16, 1913, and saw a gray car drawing toward Sixth avenue on Forty-third street, at about 2 o'clock, and that one, Sam Schepps, was standing on the runningboard of the said car. I further swore in my affidavit and stated to the court as aforesaid that on an evening prior to July 16 I saw Jack Rose, Bridge Webber and others standing near the Garden Restaurant, and heard Jack Rose say to Bridgie Webber, "Put it over him now," or words to that effect, and that I saw Herman Rosenthal coming from said restaurant.

Said statement and all of the statements of fact, which I made at said times, are false and untrue, and were known by me to be untrue at the time they were made.

I was not on Forty-third street or in that vicinity on the morning of July 16, 1912. I did not see a gray motor car or any motor car which I now recall on that day. I never saw Sam Schepps nor any other persons standing on the running board of such car. I did not see Jack Rose or Bridgie Webber in the vicinity of the Garden Restaurant.

I never have seen Jack Rose, and I should not know Bridgie Webber. I did not hear Jack Rose or any other person say, "Put it over him now." I did not see Herman Rosenthal at the Garden Restaurant on the evening of the 15th of June, 1912, and I never saw the said Rosenthal at the said restaurant or in that vicinity.

I have not been promised any immunity or reward of any kind from the District Attorney of this county or any representative of the District Attorney. I make this statement voluntarily, and I have come to the office of the District Attorney today because I saw in the newspapers this morning that he was going to conduct an investigation, and I felt sure that he would learn the falsity of my testimony and I therefore came and gave myself up.

CARL DRESNER.

Mrs. Coxey Will Ride with General's Army in Historic Phaeton

MASSILLON, O., April 16. — Mrs. Jacob S. Coxey will ride with her husband in the historic phaeton out of Massillon today, when the second army of unemployed organized by the "General" gets under way. The phaeton was used in the first march, twenty years ago.

Mrs. Coxey announced that she would place her limousine at the disposal of newspaper men who expect to accompany the army.

Trenton Residents Plead for Free Tolls

TRENTON, April 16.—A meeting in the Y. M. C. A. under the auspices of a citizens' committee protested against repeal of the free tolls provision of the Panama Canal act. Bainbridge Colby of New York and Mayor F. W. Donnelly were the principal speakers.

Mayor Donnelly said the passage of the repeal provision, to his mind, would be a manifestation of national cowardice and would result in national dishonor.

Mr. Colby in part said:

"We hold that the treaty is a contract by which the proprietor of a canal fixes the terms upon which it grants the use of the canal to its customers. Neutralization in no way restricts the owners' rights."

Police Hunt Robbers After Tunnel Break

The police today continued their search for the men who tunneled through the wall of an unoccupied building at No. 264 Tremont street into the adjoining establishment of J. H. Linsky & Brother, next door, and escaped with cloth valued at $300. It is thought a boy crept through the tunnel and passed out the cloth.

FAMED WOMEN CONTEST COMES TO END MONDAY

Have you sent in your answer to the question: "Who are the world's six most distinguished women?"

New names appear on the lists today. Next Monday, April 20, is the day. NEXT MONDAY, APRIL 20, IS THE LAST DAY. ANSWERS WILL BE RECEIVED. REMEMBER THE DATE.

The AMERICAN offers $100 in cash awards for the best replies. The object is to assist the Panama International Exposition Board, which will take the six most distinguished women of the world to San Francisco in 1915 as a feature of the exposition.

Try to select a representative of New England, as special importance will be attached to this. The six living women receiving the highest number of votes will be the formal list with which yours will be compared.

The first prize is $35, second $25, third $15, fourth $10 and fifth, sixth and seventh $5 each. In the event of a tie the sum will be equally divided. Send lists to Panama-Pacific Contest Department, Boston AMERICAN. Here are some examples:

WALSH OPPOSES STATE CONTROL OF CITY AFFAIRS

Governor Walsh in vetoing the bill establishing a license board appointed by the Governor in Chelsea went on record as strongly opposed to State control of town and city affairs.

Consideration of the veto was postponed in the House until Tuesday. In the course of his message Governor Walsh said:

"I believe as far as possible every community should be left to govern itself and to determine for itself questions of administration and public policy which affect its interest. Local self-government can only be as good as the citizens can make it.

"The remedy, when our municipalities are unfortunately suffering from poor administration, is not State control. If a city cannot determine for itself questions of administration relating to the liquor traffic may we not also expect to have urged that the control of the police of this or some other city should be given over to the State?

"It is but another step to State control of the schools, the health and fire departments of municipalities. The tendency of creating local excise boards under State control will lead to such a central control by the State of the granting of licenses that it would necessitate the establishment of a State excise commission or some central board to perform this work."

Miss Garmong Again Fighting Promise Suit

BANGOR, Me., April 16.—The suit of Miss Elizabeth Garmong of Des Moines against John R. Henderson of Washington, son of the late United States Senator Henderson, to recover $100,000 damages for alleged breach of promise of marriage, part of several years of court battling between the parties, is scheduled to come up in a few days in the Supreme Court. The case had been assigned for Tuesday, but owing to the illness of the plaintiff was postponed.

Just before leaving for New York, Mr. Henderson made a denial of all of Miss Garmong's statements. He concluded: "At her urgent request, I extended a favor to her which she now uses as a basis for her claims set forth in this suit. I never asked her to marry me. Our acquaintance was only casual, and the few calls I made upon her were in compliance with her own request."

In a previous suit Miss Garmong alleged Mr. Henderson became friendly with her when she was a domestic at the Bar Harbor summer home of the Hendersons.

Untermyer Urges Helpful Regulation

CHICAGO, April 16.—Substitution of "regulated competition" for "unrestricted, ruinous competition" was advocated by Samuel Untermyer of New York, at the national conference on farm credits.

"The main criticism of legislation now under consideration by Congress is that it does not go far enough on the constructive side of the regulation of competition. If action is to be postponed the Democratic anti-trust policy may as well be considered dead," he said.

'Labor Opposed to Stop Watch Systems'

WASHINGTON, April 16.—N. P. Alifas, representing the machinists in the government service, told the Federal Industrial Relations Commission that union workmen were opposed to efficiency systems. "Organized labor," he said, "objected to being reduced to a scientific formula and was opposed to the stop watch, time studies and to the elimination of men who cannot keep up with the intense pace set by efficiency tests."

Does thinking tire you out?

Does your mind get hazy when you are trying your best to think straight? Do you tire in the middle of the afternoon, just at the time when your most important work must be done?

Are you nervous, irritable and "snappy"? Do you go home at night thoroughly exhausted and "ready to drop"?

Your problem is to find some form of food which will meet the demands of your ill-nourished system, some food whose elements will furnish the necessary physical, mental and nervous energy.

Wincarnis is a liquid food. It is not a "patent medicine"; there are no drugs in it.

These are its three ingredients: Pure natural wine, Extract of Beef, Extract of Malt.

The wine is of choice vintages, selected for their body, color and bouquet.

The Extract of Beef is from the most nutritious portions of prize cattle of English breed.

The Extract of Malt is prepared from ripe, selected grains.

These three ingredients embody the most valuable and efficient stimulative tonic, blood-building, restorative and vitalizing elements known to science.

They are combined by a special process which retains and enhances their health-giving properties in the form of a delicious, satisfying beverage.

No expense is spared to make Wincarnis the finest preparation possible to produce, and the remarkable results it has shown are due to the care exercised in the selection of its ingredients and in their scientific combination.

Wincarnis is not a new, unified preparation. It has been in use in England for 30 years. Ten thousand British physicians recommend it.

They prescribe it for the results of overwork, "brain-fag," anemia, insomnia, debility, exhaustion and nervous diseases of all kinds—that general physical weakness which we call a "run-down" condition—and for individuals convalescing from all diseases.

If you are unfit for either work or pleasure—nervous, irritable, shaky—it must be perfectly plain to you that the right food and nothing else can put you on your feet again.

Wincarnis is such a food.

It assists tired, worn-out human nature in a natural way.

Just a trial will convince you that this is true. The coupon printed below enables you to get a sample free. Use the coupon today.

HOUSE APPROVES WILSON'S DISPATCH OF FLEET TO MEXICO

BIGGEST DREADNOUGHT TO STAY AT VERA CRUZ

retary Tumulty would comment on this expression of opinion from O'Shaughnessy.

"The report must speak for itself" was the only explanation vouchsafed.. It is significant, however, that "very encouraging" is the first comment on the Mexican problem Secretary Bryan has volunteered for two months. He has adhered strictly to his determination "not to deal in adjectives," and his characterization of the situation today, coupled with the air of relief prevalent at the White House, led to a general belief that word had been received that Huerta is preparing to "back down" and salute the flag.

NEXT THURSDAY SET FOR GREAT MEXICAN BLOCKADE

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The dreadnought Florida, most powerful battleship of the American navy, will be held at Vera Cruz indefinitely to provide a safe refuge of Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy and other Americans in case of war with Mexico.

That the Florida would stay at Vera Cruz was announced by Secretary of the Navy Daniels today. A request from the State Department for this precautionary measure is believed to have been made.

Next Thursday is the day definitely set for the great naval blockade of the Mexican ports to go into effect unless Huerta yields.

Every available battleship, cruiser and gunboat of the American navy is either steaming under forced draft toward Mexican waters or is preparing to sail as soon as possible. Navy department advices today were that eight battleships of the Atlantic fleet already are well on their way to Tampico.

READY TO DART SOUTH.

The oSuth Carolina has changed her course and will reach Key West on Sunday. The torpedo fleet at Pensacola is ready to dart southward at a moment's notice. The entire Pacific fleet is preparing to gather at San Diego, California, where it will move toward Guaymas under orders from Rear Admiral Howard.

In addition several other battleships of the Atlantic fleet are being held at New York and Philadelphia to reinforce the great fighting squadron which will assemble off Tampico next Thursday.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels today stated that he has men sufficient to man all the ships in reserve within forty-eight hours, if necessary.

"We have more than 5,000 available men in the Navy training stations alone," said Secretary Daniels. "However, I do not want to break into these men's schooling unless it is absolutely necessary. In the event of an emergency they can be rushed to New York, Philadelphia and Boston, where they could man the ships of the reserve fleet without loss f time. We consider it likely that the vessels already ordered to Mexican waters

"AIRTIGHT" BLOCKADE.

This purpose, it is understood here, entails a complete "airtight" blockade of all Mexican ports on both coasts and a "starvation" policy to force Huerta into submission.

This might endanger the lives of Americans in Mexico, but the Administration takes the ground that it has warned all United States citizens to leave the republic and that it is not responsible for any harm which may happen to them if they remain.

will be sufficient for our purpose."

BAY STATE READY TO SEND 5100 MILITIAMEN TO FRONT

The Massachusetts State Militia is included in an order sent out today by Brigadier-General Mills, calling for detailed information as to the strength and equipment of the National Guardsmen of all States in the Union. This information is sought by the War Department in order that State troops may be called upon if necessary to reinforce the regular army.

Adjutant-General Pearson today placed at 5,100 fully equipped men the total strength of the Massachusetts militia, all of whom could be thrown to the front if the emergency required. The one thing lacking to make their equipment complete, he said, was a shortage of horses. This force, he said, was made up as follows:

Five regiments of infantry.. 4,250 men
Cavalry ..... 250 men
Field artillery ..... 400 men
Signal company ..... 100 men
Sanitary department ..... 100 men

Total force ..... 5,100 men

In addition to this force, he asserted, there are two corps of cadets, with 500 men, making the total available force 5,600 trained men ready for use in twenty-four hours notice.

The one great weakness of the militia in the State, he asserted, was its lack of proper horses, no provision having been made for their purchase and maintance to date. The State has only owns two automobiles that could be substituted for horses in case of an emergency.

Adjutant-General Pearson further stated that this question frequently had been brought to the attention of the Legislature, and that a bill intended to remedy the defect was now being heard in committee.

The men themselves are all provided with arms, overcoats, tents and other equipment necessary to put them on a war footing within twenty-four hours, but the lack of horses is such a serious one that they would be greatly handicapped from the start unless a sufficient number of automobiles could be secured at short notice for transport their camp utensils and other baggage.

HOUSE COMMITTEE UNANIMOUSLY BACKS PRESIDENT'S ACTION

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Unanimous endorsement of President Wilson's action in sending the Atlantic fleet to Tampico was given the House Foreign Affairs Committee at its special meeting today by the adoption of the following resolution offered by Chairman Flood:

Resolved—That the action of the President of the United States in the Tampico incident is sustained by the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives.

Committee members were behind closed doors for more than an hour in a secret discussion of the Mexican situation and no attempt was made to minimize the gravity of that situation.

RUSH U. S. S. NEW YORK INTO COMMISSION FOR IMMEDIATE SERVICE

NEW YORK, April 16.—The new superdreadnought New York, one of the two largest battleships in the world, was rushed into commission at the Brooklyn navy Yard.

If necessary, the New York could steam out to sea in twelve hours. Other battleships in the yard are the superdreadnoughts Texas and Wyoming, the dreadnoughts North Dakota and Ohio and the armored cruiser Washington. All could join the fleet in a few hours' notice.

The New York and the Texas, the latter also just completed, are sister ships. Each has a displacement of 27,000 tons and a speed of twenty-one knots an hour. Each is fitted with a main battery of ten fourteen-inch guns. Each has a secondary armament of twenty-one five-inch rifles.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your Kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders, come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

"NO ARBITRATION FOR FLAG INSULT," IS THE ULTIMATUM

WASHINGTON, April 16.—"No arbitration" was the decisive ultimatum voiced at the White House today. It was made known in the strongest terms that there could be no arbitration of the insults directed at the American flag by Mexican troops at Tampico.

Reported plans of President Huerta to ask for arbitration were characterized as ridiculous. The White House officials stated that so far as is known Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy has not yet broken off his negotiations with President Huerta over the Tampico incident.

Denial that President Wilson has lost confidence in O'Shaughnessy was made by the White House officials. It was declared that the reports that the President had told his visitors that he is dissatisfied with O'Shaughnessy's relations with President Huerta are without basis of truth.

No communication from any other official source in Mexico has been received since last night, it was stated. The Mexican embassy here has made no representations to the State Department and the State Department has made no attempt to negotiate with the Mexican charge d'affaires, Senor Algara.

All discussions of the possibility of a general blockade of Mexican ports was avoided.

VERA CRUZ THE OBJECTIVE POINT OF U. S. FLEET

VERA CRUZ, April 16.—This city is believed to be the objective point of the American fleet instead of Tampico.

It is understood that the interests that control the Interoceanic Railroad have recently been approached by agents of the American government seeking to learn what rolling stock could be provided for the transportation of United States marines from the coast to Mexico City if such a step should be found necessary.

This indicates that the American government is preparing for an actual invasion of Mexico should its demands be rejected.

ONE OF EIGHT PORTS.

This city is one of the eight ports the United States is expected to seize if Huerta persists in his refusal to apologize for the flag insult at Tampico.

The Mexican gunboats Zaragoza and Juarez, which have been anchored in Tampico Bay, with guns trained on the Constitutionalists' position, have disappeared, bound East into the gulf.

The purpose of withdrawing them at this time puzzles both Americans and the Constitutionalists, but it is said General Gonsales will refrain from attacking Tampico until he ascertains the outcome of the fresh trouble between the United States and the Huerta government.

A train of ten cars arrived here from the capital today under heavy military guard. Upon its arrival a heavy force of soldiers was thrown about the railroad yard and no one except the soldiers or their officers was allowed to approach while the contents of the cars were being unloaded.

This operation was superintended by General Maas, commander of the port, in person. It was later stated by a Federal officer that the train brought cannon and ammunition, "to be used in defending Tampico from the next attack of the rebels."

HELD IN BARRACKS.

The general belief of Americans here, however, is that the cannon and ammunition will be kept here to be used in case President Huerta decides to go to war with the United States rather than salute its flag.

The Mexican troops in this city have been restricted to barracks, and the recreation privileges of the officers cut off.

Simultaneously naval movements have been begun by the Mexicans.

United States Consul Canada is still investigating the case of three women prisoners held here on charges of being spies for the Constitutionalists.

Mr. Canada was first informed that the prisoners were Americans, but General Maas was notified by the war department at Mexico City that they were Mexican citizens.

MEXICANS AT JUAREZ FEEL BITTER TOWARD NEARBY AMERICANS

EL PASO, April 16.—Mexicans at nearby Juarez display bitter feeling toward the Americans. Today the anti-American feeling in the Mexican town across the border is more bitter than it has been since the day Lieutenant Field went across the bridge with his command of United States soldiers, thinking that he was going from one bridge to another through United States territory.

Wholesale firms, railroad companies merchants and customs brokers have noticed a decided change in attitude on the part of the Mexicans toward the Americans. Americans who are forced to remain in Juarez because of their business are sleeping in El Paso at night and many of them are moving their families to this side for fear of anti-American riots which might result from drastic action at Tampico.

Newspaper men detailed to cover the Mexican side were insulted by officials of the rebel government and all Americans were referred to with slurs and oaths. While some of the high rebel officials would advise against opposition to the United States, the undisciplined and uncontrolled of the rebel army could not be held back from participation in the opposition to an American invasion. While the rebels would not join the Federals in Mexico at first, the feeling would be to unite and after the campaign was closed the rebels and Federals would be fighting side by side.

Reports from Chihuahua say the rebels will act independently in the field against the Americans, but will not join with Huerta. The correspondents at the front are coming out on the first train and many Americans in the interior are also coming to the border.

Preparations continue to be made for the eventualities. Provisions are being rushed here on every freight train.

WEEKS OFFERS HIS SERVICES IN EVENT OF MEXICAN TROUBLE

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Wilson has the support of both Massachusetts Senators in his attitude on the Mexican question. Senator Weeks has offered his services to the President. Having graduated from the Naval Academy, Senator Weeks considers it his duty to offer his services to the Army and Navy whenever trouble arises.

While he has not been in hearty sympathy with the administration's policy toward Mexico up to the present time, Senator Lodge thinks it is the duty of everybody, regardless of party affiliation, to stand with the President now that he has gone so far as he has.

Senator Lodge feels either intervention or an apology and reparation from Mexico is inevitable.

'ACTION,' NOT 'WAITING,' ONLY SOLUTION OF MEXICAN PROBLEM

CONGRESS HAILS NEW POLICY, SAYS LEWIS

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Wilson has said that Huerta must salute." Huerta has said he won't. Wherefore our gallant warships are plowing their leeriness way toward Tampico. Whatever the outcome and whether we are to go to war with Mexico or further add to the gayety of nations by another backdown remains to be seen.

This much may be said, however—the situation is a welcome relief to Congressmen upon whom Mr. Wilson's praise of "watchful waiting" was humiliating to pain.

And yet, for all that men of House and Senate are breathing easier now that action seems upon the way, the question "Will we fight or will we quit?" is everywhere being asked. All pose pretends to answer it.

The White House called "Huerta a outrage" and then withdrew it. Huerta refused to resign. The White House declared against holding the Mexican throne. Then it declared itself into another useless body wood. That's just the name. The White House and that the Mexican Congress being convened must not recognize Huerta. Huerta only to find the Mexican Congress did

ADMINISTRATION DEFIED.

We have insisted ultimatum after ultimatum, only to waive a time defied. Huerta paid about as much respectful attention to the administration warnings, commands, threats and ultimatums as an Apache on the war path would pay to a resolution of the Board of Trade.

Defied, heeded at, disobeyed and insulted, the Wilson administration wrapped itself in its policy of "watchful waiting" as in a mantle and it was content.

How many months have we pocketed? How many wrongs have we prepended not to see?

Force, should American, honestly and properly in Mexico, have been able to get out upon the suggestion of Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson and without out-resisting left roundly $1,250,000 worth of property behind for the Huertas, Zapatas and Orozcos to loot, pillage and destroy.

What is to be in history did any nation ever tell its people to get out of country where, in all international honesty and decency they had a perfect right to be?

Aside from that exodus of 40,000 at the hint of a President, 4,000 other Americans have been either murdered or deported Americans too have been ad-

lured across into Mexico to be first tortured and then killed

HUERTA SO COWARD.

All these shameful matters have been done or submitted to under the policy of "watchful waiting."

Why then shall it be strange that Senators and Representatives not to mention diplomatists both foreign and domestic, even while our warships gun shotted and decks cleared, are rushing on Tampico, are by no means sure that any powder will be burned.

We have let so many outrages pass unchallenged, received so many insults without resenting them, that no one is sure we intend to fight until the shooting starts.

The probability of war lies with Huerta himself. Huerta is Indian stubborn, a born bluffer and no coward. In every exchange between this country and Mexico the Mexican foreign office has outmaneuvered, outmanaged, outphrased Mr. Bryan and his State Department. Where the latter was crude the Mexicans were polished. Where he was dull they were keen to examine as a pet fox. Where he beattle'd, they knew their direction and went straight on. Where he was flabby they were firm. The firmness thus far has been all on the Mexicans' side.

THAT NOBEL PRIZE.

The chances favor war. Not because Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan want it, but because Huerta wants it, and will have it though he has to order the slaughter of every American in Mexico to bring it about.

Those familiar with the inside of the administration describe Mr. Bryan as suffering acutely. He has said that in case of war he would resign. Also there is that Nobel prize of $40,000. To remain in the Cabinet after war was declared would be breaking his word so proudly given.

That to be sure Mr. Bryan might easily swallow and put his word regulping on the ground of patriotism. But the $40,000 Nobel prize is another matter. He would lose it and every chance of it were he to take part in any war. Mr. Bryan does not know where to turn or what to do. Forty thousand dollars look very large to Mr. Bryan.

On the other hand, to separate him from the portfolio would be much like tearing a mother from her child. Yesterday, after talking "war" with Mr. Daniels, Mr. Bryan was so agitated that he could hardly find his way out of the White House. He roamed from room to room unable for some moments to locate an outside door.

'DON'T WAIT FOR ORDERS,' LAST OFFICIAL WORD TO BADGER

WASHINGTON, April 16.—While Huerta persists in his attitude of defiance, four dreadnoughts of the Atlantic fleet, under Rear Admiral Badger in his flagship steamed out of Hampton Roads, are speeding southward to join the American naval force off Tampico.

They have been ordered to maintain a speed of 11½ knots an hour and are expected to make the Mexican port next Wednesday.

The order in which they felt their way to sea through the heavy fog was The flagship Arkansas, the Vermont, the New Hampshire and the New Jersey.

FISKE LAST TO LEAVE.

Rear Admiral Fiske, chief of the Navy Bureau of Operations, was the last man to leave the Arkansas before she moved seaward. Fiske had brought Rear Admiral Badger his sailing orders from this city.

This is reported to be Wilson's program of action:

1—Vera Cruz and Tampico will be seized and ports on the west coast of Mexico will also be occupied and a "peaceful blockade" of both coasts established.

2—The occupation and blockade will continue until the Mexican government inflicts adequate punishment on the Federal army officer who made the arrests at Tampico and a national salute of twenty-one guns has been fired by a Mexican fort to the United States flag.

3—No time limit for compliance by the Mexican government with President Wilson's demand has been fixed and there will be no seizure of any Mexican port until after the arrival of the Atlantic fleet under Rear Admiral Badger at Tampico

"FOLLOW OWN COURSE."

4—Should circumstances occur that render immediate forceful action necessary Admiral Badger will follow his own course without waiting for further instructions from Washington.

5—Should no such circumstances compel immediate seizure of Mexican ports, the President will address Congress on the subject of his drastic attitude toward Mexico and will request congressional approval of his plan to take and hold Vera Cruz, Tampico and other places and establish a blockade of both Mexican coasts.

6—There will be no declaration of war, the President contending that ample precedents justify seizure of ports to obtain reparation for national insult without going to the extreme of such a declaration

7—The occupation of Mexican ports will cease when American honor has been satisfied through compliance with the President's demands, unless Congress should determine otherwise

April has figured prominently in [illegible] of our wars. Four began in this month.

The Revolution began April 19, 1775; the Mexican War April 24, 1846, and the Civil War April 24, 1861.

U. S. WITHIN RIGHTS, DECLARES EXPERT ON INTERNATIONAL LAW

NEW YORK, April 16.—"On the admitted facts, the national honor has been subjected to insult in Mexico. The United States is clearly within its rights and in demanding no more than international usage sanctions in requiring that a salute be fired to her flag by a [illegible]

This is the view of Frederic R. Coudert, one of the foremost living experts on international law, on the Mexican crisis.

Mr. Coudert told the AMERICAN today that by every rule and precedent of international relations the government of the United States is entitled to reparation for the insults. [illegible] no shot Huerta has admitted the point in the partial apology he has made.

If [illegible] Mr. Coudert declared, it was within the power of the offended nation to fix the nature of the reparation, and a salute to the flag is the most general form of apology sanctioned by universal usage.

"One's mind instantly reverts to the Chilian affair," said Mr. Coudert, "in which a party of our sailors were illtreated in the streets of Valparaiso. We were ultimately compelled to take a show of force whereupon the Chilian government apologized and a substantial sum in damages was paid to the families of the two sailors who were killed.

FIVE BATTLESHIPS AT BOSTON YARD READY FOR CALL TO MEXICO

At the Charlestown Navy Yard it was declared today that the five battleships there are in readiness for a quick call to Mexican waters.

Secretary Daniels announced that as soon as the Third Division, comprising the battleships Rhode Island, Nebraska, Virginia, Georgia and their auxiliaries, now at the Charlestown Navy Yard, had their bottoms scraped they would be sent to Mexico.

The cruiser North Carolina is also at the local yard. The five warships are due for two or three months more at Charlestown, but could join the Mexican demonstration in fighting trim at short notice.

The six-inch and some of the twelve-inch guns on the Georgia and the North Carolina are to be changed because the rifling is no longer perfect on the old ones, and this work will be hurried up to get them ready to help bombard Mexican ports if necessary.

There was great activity today in provisioning the ships for a long cruise.

If the battleships are not sent away their crews are facing months there with sadly depleted shore leave, for the freedom that has been given the sailors has been limited in order that

HUERTA TO THE AMERICAN: "TAMPICO INCIDENT OF NO PARTICULAR IMPORTANCE"

"Editor Boston AMERICAN:

MEXICO CITY, April 15.—"Mexico has no controversy with anyone, least of all with the great American people

"The Tampico incident is of no particular importance.

V. HUERTA."

WHAT HUERTA'S MEN DID.

On April 10 a party of United States marines in full uniform, commanded by Assistant Paymaster Copp, landed at Tampico from a boat flying the American flag, to get supplies.

For no given cause they were paraded through the streets, subjected to the jeers and hisses of the populace and put in jail. After several hours they were released on a demand from Admiral Mayo. The only reparation was a brief expression of regret.

Immediately afterward an orderly from one of the United States warships at Vera Cruz, who had gone ashore for the ship's mail in full uniform and carrying the official mail bag, was thrown into jail.

In Mexico City officials in charge of the government telegraph office withheld an official dispatch from the United States government to Charge d' Affaires O'Shaughnessy and surrendered it to him only after his personal and emphatic demand.

NEWSPAPER MEN TAKEN.

General Orozco, who is in command here told the correspondent of the International News Service that among the prisoners taken at San Pedro were five American newspaper correspondents and magazine writers who were traveling with the Federals. Every consideration has been promised these men and they probably will be sent to the United States.

More than [illegible] wounded have been brought to Torreon since the battle of San Pedro. Many [illegible] are arriving here under cavalry guard after being marched across the desert, weak in general plight from hunger and thirst.

With the Constitutionalists took San Pedro they captured 20 trains, including 20 locomotives, all in good working order, and 300 freight cars. They also captured 25 cars loaded with coal eight carloads of ice 30 carloads of ammunition, 20 carloads of water, 60 carloads of cotton and 75 carloads of merchandise, mostly clothing and provisions, which the Federals had brought up from Saltillo and Monterey.

CANNON CAPTURED.

Besides the eleven cannon abandoned by the Federals in the town, seventeen rapid-fire guns and a dozen other pieces of artillery, including a number of mountain guns, have been picked up along the trail followed by the fleeing Federals.

Among the cars captured were the private Pullman coaches of General Joaquin Maas and several others of Moure

The total number of prisoners taken in the battle as reported thus far will number 2,500. All the Federal prisoners sent to Torreon have taken oath of allegiance to the Constitutionalist cause, have been given Constitutional uniforms and new rifles. They are now being drilled preparatory to going upon the firing line. Very few of them know anything about war more than to load and fire a rifle and all are deficient in military evolutions

HUNDREDS VOLUNTEER IN CAPITAL DISTRICT FOR POSSIBLE ACTION

WASHINGTON, April 16—Hundreds of volunteers for service in a possible Mexican campaign came forward today. The District of Columbia National Guard through its commander, Lieutenant-Colonel Parmenter, announced that it was ready to proceed to the front at any minute. He said he could answer the first roll in a few hours, with one battery of artillery, one signal corps, one hospital corps and fifteen hundred infantry. The naval militia also has signified its eagerness to embark for the south.

U. S. ACTIVITY ON MEXICO WELCOMED BY FOREIGN PRESS

LONDON, April 16—All the European newspapers print long accounts of the movements of the American ships and the Mexican situation in general today. Dispatches from Washington stating that the American government will force President Huerta to respect the United States flag are hailed as a forecast of intervention, a course which meets practically unanimous approval.

We have from the first upheld the right of the United States to take whatever action commended itself to its government," says the Westminster Gazette in its leading editorial. "We think more of President Wilson because he has been moved to action on a point of national honor. If President Wilson should decide on or be driven into a policy of 'thorough' he will carry with him the good wishes of the British nation."

"The destruction or humiliation of Huerta," comments the Westminster Gazette, "looks almost inevitably to the alternative of intervention by which we mean not merely the blockading of ports or landing parties from warships, but actual administration and the protection of property owned by Mexicans or foreigners in Mexico."

The Evening Standard ironically remarks that "it must be a comfort to Mr. Wilson and the American Nation to have at least the semblance of a man and a government against whom to direct energies of the republic."

"Compromise," is the plea voiced by Le Figaro of Paris today. "It is to be hoped," says the newspaper, "that a compromise will be effected and that in the interest of his own cause and Mexican peace Huerta will make the necessary sacrifices to give satisfaction to the United States."

CRUISER TACOMA IS DELAYED ON WAY TO NEWPORT BY GALE

NEWPORT, R. I., April 16.—Commander Twining of the United States cruiser Tacoma, which left Boston yesterday bound for this port to take on men to go to Mexico, notified the wireless station here today that he cannot arrive before 2 o'clock in the afternoon owing to bad weather. After leaving Boston yesterday the Tacoma went into the teeth of an easterly gale with a wind blowing at sixty miles an hour. It was one of the wildest nights of the year on the coast.

The [illegible] station here everything is hurly burly making [illegible] committee of the draft of [illegible] men who will go to Mexico on the Tacoma. The draft consists [illegible] firemen, ships cooks, [illegible] coal passers, coal [illegible] seamen mates and fifty-two ordinary seamen who will be distributed among the warships in Mexican waters. The men will be taken out to the breakwater and put aboard the Tacoma at about 3 o'clock, in the government ferryboat from the training station.

WILSON IN SECRET CONFERENCE; STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS HINTED

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16—Hints of unexpected developments of a startling nature in connection with the Mexican situation resulted today from a long conference between Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, John Lind, who was President Wilson's personal envoy to Mexico and Secretary of State Bryan at the State Department.

DIZZY, HEADACHY, SICK, "CASCARETS"

Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

Pounding away your energy

Your strength, gained from your daily food, represents a certain amount of useful energy.

If any of this supply of power is wasted by needless strain and shock, it is gone forever—you cannot use it again.

The labor of taking thousands of steps each day is not severe, but the jar of your weight coming down on hard leather heels gives your nervous system a series of heavy shocks. This consumes, in enormous quantities, the strength upon which your earning power and your success in life depend.

O'Sullivan's Heels of new, live rubber interpose an easy, springy cushion between your heels and hard floors and pavements. They save your delicate nervous system the strain which otherwise uses up your strength and energy. They add to your efficiency, your health and your comfort.

O'Sullivan's Heels cost but 50 cents a pair, attached. All shoemakers and shoe dealers will attach them to your shoes when you buy them, or at any other time. If you prefer, send us 35 cents and a tracing of your heel and we will mail you a pair. O'Sullivan Rubber Co., 131 Hudson St., N.Y. City.

RITCHIE GIVES UP RING FOR AUTO WORK

By WILLIE RITCHIE—No. 5.

After losing two battles in a row, one to Charley Reilly and the other to Frankie Burns, I began to figure a little. True, I managed to put over seventeen victories without a loss, but those two defeats caused me more worry than I am now willing to admit. I was not knocked out or even hurt in either battle, but at the same time I was outpointed, and this very thought was enough to make me sad and gloomy.

The promoters did not look for me after Burns got that verdict. They never do after a fellow is beaten once. They are looking for one who is right up in front and who the fans are talking about all the time.

My friends urged me to go ahead and take another chance. But I could not see any future in the boxing game and I decided to try my hand at something else.

But I did very well financially while in the ring. I managed to save several hundred dollars besides making a good living, so I was not so badly off.

I ran across a friend who advised me to get into the automobile business. He told me of a place down in Codiaca, where I probably could get a job in a garage and work myself up into something larger. At first I even hesitate. I jumped on the first train for the oil fields, determined to get out of the fighting game for a while at least and perhaps forever.

RED SOX FIGHT HARD TO WIN RUBBER TODAY

By JACK CONWAY

With the series standing one all, the clans of Carrigan and Griffith clash again this afternoon. The noble Red Sox band assert that they will breeze in winners today and give the brave baseball "fans" of New England something to talk about.

"Dutch" Leonard is expected to pitch for the dear old Fenway Park team today. Leonard was scheduled to perform on the mound yesterday but General Bill Carrigan changed his plans at the eleventh hour and used George Foster in the box.

But as the Arkansas farmer trounced the Senators by a count of 2 to 1 the "fans" were perfectly satisfied with the shift which Carrigan made.

There is a possibility that the Red Sox chief may select Hugh Bedient to do the slabbooning today. Bedient did not do a great deal of pitching while on the Northern trip but is in excellent condition and Carrigan says that he has plenty of "stuff" on the ball and should have a successful year.

BOEHLING FIRST CHOICE TODAY.

Either Joe Boehling or Joe Engel will do the hurling for Washington today. Griffith intended to use one of these men yesterday but decided to keep them out of the battle on account of the cold weather.

The Senators play here today and tomorrow and the Red Sox leader believes that they are capable of winning the series from the team from the Capital.

Walter Johnson is, of course, Washington's best in the pitching department and with the "Big Swede" out of the way for the present series Lannin's hired men declare that they have a little something on the visitors.

George Foster was the hero of yesterday's 2 to 1 victory over Washington. Foster is not as well known to Boston "fans" as are some of Carrigan's other pitchers as he was forced to remain out of the game part of last year on account of injuries.

The Arkansas boy is not a spectacular ball player. He is quiet and unassuming and does not seek the limelight but when he is put to the test he is usually not found wanting.

CARRIGAN ANXIOUS TO WIN.

Carrigan was very anxious to win yesterday's game. He refused to call off the contest on account of the cold weather, as he knows what it means to a baseball club to get a poor start in a pennant race.

After watching his pitchers warm up, Bill decided that Foster was the young man to stop the Senators. And the little fellow made good. He held Griffith's scrappy crew to three scattered hits and gave even a better exhibition of pitching than the mighty Walter Johnson did Tuesday.

Foster would have scored a shutout if it had not been for errors by Scott and Engle in the second inning. He struck out eight batters while he only gave one base on balls.

The Harvard baseball team will play its last game before leaving on its southern trip against the University of Maine at Soldiers Field this afternoon. Play will start at 3:30 o'clock.

The Crimson warriors will leave for the South tomorrow, playing their first game en route against the West Point Cadets Saturday.

"Rex" Hitchcock, the big star of Harvard's collection of twirlers, will likely start the game in the box against the Pine Tree State aggregation today but will only work for a couple of innings, as he is scheduled to pitch again on Saturday against the Cadets.

Whitney, who started on the mound against the "Aggies" last Saturday, will take up the burden where Hitchcock leaves off.

Whitney is a fine pitcher with a good assortment of curves but was rather weak in his fielding against the "Up-Staters." The cold and high wind doubtless had a lot to do with this. With good weather today a big improvement is looked for in the youngster.

BRAVES RESUME BATTLES WITH DODGERS TODAY

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 16.—After a welcomed day of rest, through the kindness of "Old Jupe Pluvius," the Braves and the Dodgers will resume their series on Ebbets Field this afternoon, weather permitting.

The Braves are bent on getting even with the Brooklyn team, and after the lesson they were taught in the opener, it is safe to say that they will display a much different brand of ball today.

Stallings gave his charges a good, stiff lecture during their layoff yesterday, and told them just what he expected of them. The players said nothing afterwards, but, judging by their actions, it was evident that they took it very much to heart, and will try to correct their faults in today's encounter.

Dick Rudolph, the diminutive Gotham boy, will, in all probability, take the mound for the Braves this afternoon, while the Brooklyn choice of pitchers lies between Pater Ragan or Allen, the young lefthander.

Rudolph showed well in the Spring training camp, and Stallings is banking a whole lot on him this season. Therefore, it is almost certain that the Dodgers will run up against a pretty tough customer.

The Braves have yet to find their batting eyes. Stallings blames the change in climatic conditions for the players' inability to hit, and believes that when they get used to the Eastern atmosphere they will get down to business.

Henigan and Horne in Jamaica Plain Run

The entries for the ten-mile road race to be held in Jamaica Plain on the morning of Patriots' Day under the auspices of the William H. Reddish Club are coming in rapidly. Prizes now indicate that there will be about seventy-five starters, the entries including "Cliff" Horne of Haverhill, Jimmy Henigan of Malden, Sandy Miley, the winner of the Cathedral race, Atwood of New Bedford and others of prominence in long running. Senator Francis J. Horgan will start the race.

School Games Dates Fixed for May 26-28

Dates for the Boston High School outdoor track games were arranged by the governing board that has charge of arrangements, and are announced for May 26 and 28, a week in advance of the usual dates. It was expected the games would fall on June 2 and 4.

Mabel Herbert Urner's Great Series:

Their Married Life

Helen Succumbs to the Feminine Love for a Bargain with Unexpected Results

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

THE bargain counter was strewn with a tumbled mass of beaded ornaments, buckles, tassels and remnants of braid and fringe. Over this assortment was the placard:

Sample Lot of Dress Garnitures
1-3 Former Price

Mrs. Stevens paused, glanced appraisingly over the counter, and picked up a card of dangling jet pendants marked from "15c" to "15c."

"Those are awfully cheap," musingly, "if one could only use them."

"But you never wear black," disapproved Helen, knowing Mrs. Stevens's weakness for useless bargains.

"That's so," reluctantly, "Oh, look!" holding up a remnant of crystal bead fringe. 'Isn't this the very same that's on your blue gown?"

It was the same—Helen saw that at a glance. It was a short end, pinned on the board that had held the original bolt, marked "$2.45 yd." but the remnant was ticketed "¾yd. 45c."

Helen considered. She had been wanting to make over that gown—to get more chiffon for a draped overskirt—and with this extra piece she would have enough of the fringe to edge it.

"Well, I want two of these, anyway." Mrs. Stevens had ferreted out a card of rhinestone buckles. "And here's some crystal ornaments to match your fringe—you're foolish if you don't take them."

There were three on the card, reduced from $1.15 to 29c. each. Helen had never cared for dangling ornamenterie, but as these ornaments matched the fringe the possibility of using them was tempting.

"Do you know, I think they're manufacturers' samples," said a woman hovering over the counter on the opposite side.

"Well, they're cheap enough, whatever they are," agreed the woman with her. "If you see another tassel like this I want it."

Mrs. Stevens nudged Helen with a whispered "That's just what they are—manufacturers' samples. That's why they're so cheap."

There is nothing that so appeals to the feminine bargain instinct as "manufacturers' samples." The very phrase implies cheapness, because there are only a few of a kind.

AN ORGY

Before they left that counter, Mrs. Stevens spent $4.75, and Helen, under her insistent urging, $3.35, for a variety of buckles, bead ornaments and remnants of fringe. It was a real orgy of bargaining.

Helen had always prided herself on never buying a thing merely because it was cheap. She had never spent her money or cluttered up her home with a host of useless "bargains." Yet, excepting the fringe, she had no definite use for any of these things, and she had hardly received her change and her package before she regretted her purchases.

"Now, let's see." Mrs. Stevens glanced at her shopping list. "Oh, yes, let's go to the corsets. I want to get one of those laced-front hip confiners. Here, we can take this elevator."

But even the allurements of the corset department failed to take Helen's mind from her reckless purchases. She could hardly wait to examine them, to try the effect of the beaded ornaments on her blue gown.

When she finally reached home, without waiting to take off her things, she tore open the package.

Oh, why HAD she bought them? Excepting the tassels and those three beaded ornaments, there was not a thing there that she could ever use.

When she got out the gown, she saw with sick dismay that the beads in the fringe were a cream white, while those in the remnant she had bought were a blue white.

The fringe was useless! Useless, too, were the three ornaments, which now looked tawdry and would cheapen the whole gown.

The two other ornaments, that Mrs. Stevens had insisted she could use on "something," were even more garish, as the beads were iridescent and the rhinestone buckles were cheaply made. Even as she handled them one of the stones came out.

Helen sat on the bed looking wretchedly at the glittering fripperies. They suggested all the glaring tawdriness in dress that she so hated.

And she could not return or exchange them, for the placard over the counter had said, "These sales goods are not returnable."

Never again would she go shopping with Mrs. Stevens! She could afford to indulge her bargain hunting instincts, but Helen could not.

More than one half of her monthly allowance to her mother it seemed almost criminal for her to buy such things. She bit her lip as she looked at the baubles, whose very glitter was offensive. What could she do with them? Every time she saw them they would be a hateful reminder of money thrown away.

"Is this worth ironing, ma'am?" . . .

PAST MENDING

Mrs. O'Grady appeared at the door, holding up one of Helen's night gowns with the lace yoke almost in pieces. It was past mending.

"No, I guess not. You can give it to Nora for dusters." Then, as Mrs. O'Grady started out, "Is Edna better to-day?"

"Oh, yes'm. I've hopin' she kin go to school to-morrow."

It was because Edna was sick that a mother had done only half a day's washing yesterday, so she was doing up this afternoon.

Helen looked after Mrs. O'Grady. It a sudden inspiration. Wouldn't she love these bead ornaments for the little silk "graduation dress" she is making for Edna? They would be appropriate, of course, but Mrs. O'Grady had a marked fondness for over-trimmed, gaudy clothes. Making two or the ornaments and a rhinestone buckle, the one with the stone out, Helen impulsively ran out to the kitchen.

"Oh, Mrs. O'Grady, I thought you might use these on Edna's graduating dress. And here's a buckle—it'll be pretty on a hat for you."

At least she had got rid of some of them, and profitably, too, reflected Helen, for next week she would put in that pair of blankets. Mrs. O'Grady was always amiable after something had been given her, and she would wash the blankets now without grumbling.

It was later in the afternoon that Helen chanced to be in the pantry and overheard from the kitchen her own name in Mrs. O'Grady's shrill voice.

SHE OVERHEARS

"Oh, I'll have to take 'em home; she'd be mad if I don't. But the idea of her thinkin' I'd put them things on Edna's dress. I washes for my livin', but I know what's what. Now, Mrs. Martin that I washes for on Tuesdays, you ought to see the things she gives me. Just last week she brought out an elegant waist that"—

Helen waited to hear no more. With burning cheeks she ran back into the sitting room. That INSOLENT woman! That she should dare speak of her like that! Never—NEVER would she give her another thing.

She had spoiled her—she had been too good to her. She thought angrily of the blankets she had not put in this week for fear of making the wash too heavy. She would put them in next week—and the bedroom curtains, too. And if she grumbled—well, there were plenty of other washerwomen.

The thought of Mrs. O'Grady and Nora's "talking her over" in the kitchen made her wild. She almost wished she had stayed to hear that, for then she had said; then her cheeks flushed deeper as she thought how contemptible was eavesdropping on one's servants.

For the rest of the afternoon Helen was in a very unhappy mood. She was having the unpleasant reflection of having thrown away $2.30 on some tawdry ornaments she was incensed with the rankling memory of Mrs. O'Grady's sneering comments.

Fortunately Warren came home in high spirits. He had had a good day and was quite talkative at dinner, so Helen's depression was not noticed.

"What's that cat got?" he demanded suddenly.

Pussy Purr-Mew was playing rompishly with something in front of the sideboard. Now she was rolling over with it between her paws. It was something that glittered.

Helen, who was serving the salad, watched her listlessly. But Warren pushed back his chair, started up with an energy that made Pussy Purr-Mew drop her trophy and dart guiltily away.

"Must 'a come of Nora's finery," as Warren picked it up with a puzzled frown. "Jove, she's clawed off some of the de dads!"

In a startled glance Helen saw that it was one of those bead ornaments, that awful iridescent one! She started out in the pantry to give it to Nora, Helen stopped him with a hurried,

"No, no, dear; it's not Nora's—it's mine!"

"Yours! What in thunder— Looks like a Christmas tree!"

"Oh, I know," faltered Helen, "it's AWFUL! I—I bought it today. They were having a sale at Werner's, Mrs. Stevens bought a lot and—I did, too! Oh, I don't know when I ever did such a foolish thing. It's awful—I KNOW it's awful!" as Warren viewed it with a derisive grin.

"Pretty—pretty awful. "How much?"

"Twenty - nine cents," faltered Helen.

HIS LITTLE JOKE.

Warren drew out a handful of change and tossed across the table a quarter and a five-cent piece.

"Good! I'll take it! Worth thirty cents to me, all right!"

Helen looked her bewilderment.

"To keep you in order! Next time I buy anything like that Chinese vase you made such a row about—I'll just dangle this before you as a little reminder that you've a pretty rotten taste yourself!"

"Don't wait too long." "Youthful marriages are frequently happiest." "Marry at an early age."

At What Age Should a Girl Marry?

Charming Billie Burke, Just Wed Herself, Answers an All-Absorbing Question

"YES, I am 'Jerry,' through and through," says Miss Billie Burke, and of course at the name Billie Burke we all have visions of an adorable curly-haired maid with twinkling dimples and a faraway expression in a pair of laughing blue eyes.

"I think the modern girl is charming, she is so wideawake and brimming over with animal spirits. I think she is spoiled, but being spoiled doesn't at all detract from her charm; it adds a certain spice of its own which is very, very sweet, perhaps because it is often so very, very naughty. But I do think that very frequently the charming girl misses entirely that happy faculty of stepping gracefully into middle age. One of the chief reasons for this is the late age most girls are adopting for marrying. They wait because they are afraid of missing a good time, and it is quite true that each year of waiting brings its accompanying desire for some one different, and then if that some one doesn't put in an appearance, what then? Perhaps the girl never marries in waiting for an ideal man who probably would never have come up to her expectations in any way, even if she had met him. She has passed by love itself with unseeing eyes, and in time—and not a very great length of time either—she develops into a female cynic!

"I have heard people say that girls of today are often too undeveloped mentally to undertake the problems of marriage at an early age. This is a remark voicing the spirit of the age, the shirking of responsibility, and is utterly absurd. Our fathers and mothers were all married at an age that we would put down as too youthful to even think about such a thing. But they didn't make the mistake that we are making today, and their courtships had all of the sweetness of true romance, while ours seem to be based on a practical foundation with no room for foolishness or anything of the kind. A girl should be married at any early age, and her years of development after marriage are the most important years of her life. By an early age, however, I don't mean foolishly young, but don't form an ideal and then expect the man you marry to fulfil all your expectations. There are no ideal men, because every man is full of faults, just as every girl is. There are, however, ideals that every man and woman cherish and try to live up to; without them this world would be a dull and dreary place. Have as many ideals as you can conveniently manage, and when the right man comes along tell him all about them; perhaps you will find that he has just as many to confide in you; together you can make the ideals a rainbow of glad reality.

"Happy marriages, therefore, are not always those based entirely upon stern common sense; youthful marriages are frequently the happiest kind, provided they are not undertaken with any serious handicap. Marriage on the reciprocity plan, where each is willing to give in to a certain extent and to learn by the mistakes they have made just where in they have failed to accomplish a thing the first time, is the real ideal marriage. Love frequently comes but once, so don't make the mistake of holding him at arm's length when he wants to come in and stay with you forever."

CHAPTER IV.

HANS looked at Gretchen's portrait on the magazine cover and turned his face away so quickly that the two assembled peasant women could not see the fiery red that crept up from bare throat to forehead. In addition to their rustic simplicity and peasant prudishness, Hans' bosom held a heart of virgin purity and delicacy of feeling. But not for a moment did he fancy that any change in Gretchen's character was reflected in this bold and glaring portrayal of her charms—not yet. It was simply a forecast of worldliness and loss of delicacy that must not be allowed to proceed any further.

"Oh, Hans," wailed Mother Krug, "she has disgraced us all. How can I look our good neighbors in the face again?"

"We will destroy this indecent book," said Mother Schmidt, snatching the magazine out of Hans' hand. "No one but ourselves shall see it."

"There are others like it," said Hans, who was now able to control his embarrassment. "But it is not the picture that matters—it is our Gretchen herself."

"Mother," added the boy—who was now as tall as a man—"Gretchen needs me. I shall go to her."

"Yes, yes," asserted Gretchen's mother, eagerly. "Tell her how she has disgraced us. Tell her to avoid such unseemly exposures of her shoulders before it is too late and Satan has her in his power!"

"Go, my son," said Mother Schmidt, "I will get a lad from the village to tend the sheep."

Hans went and put on his Sunday trousers, and with their baggy folds flapping about the tops of his wooden shoes departed across the fields toward the great city whither his love and solicitude for Gretchen drew him like a compelling hand.

HER TRIUMPH

In the great theatre managed by Director Zimmer all was hurry and bustle in preparation for "Mlle. Gretchen's" first public appearance in Amsterdam following her return from her triumphal tour abroad.

The fat little ballet master was rehearsing half a hundred coryphees in the figures of a new ballet of which Gretchen, as premiere, was to be the central figure. In their fluffy short skirts and white fleshings, with arms and shoulders bare, they thronged the dressing rooms and corridor leading from the director's office to the stage.

And into their midst blundered Hans, the shepherd boy, in his flapping trousers and wooden shoes.

A plump coryphee with bulging calves took pity on the blushing youth. But she couldn't help laughing in his face and asking, "Where are the sheep?"

"A lad from the village is caring for them in my absence," said Hans, seriously. "I am here to see my old playmate, Gretchen. She needs me."

At that the plump coryphee laughed again.

"You are wrong, my little shepherd," she said. "Our premiere de ballet no longer needs anyone. She has 'arrived,' as the French say. She is the star, the whole thing. She no longer rehearses with us—except just once, for a few minutes, on the day of the performance. Does Mlle. Gretchen need anyone? Ha, ha, ha!" And the plump coryphee shook with laughter.

"Gretchen needs me," persisted Hans. "I am her old playmate, and —and—and—something has happened"—

The loud thumping of the ballet master's stick was heard summoning the girls to the stage.

"You will have to see Scipio," said the plump one over her bare shoulder as she hurried away; "the colored boy in the director's ante room."

As Hans made known his business to Scipio, the door of the Director's room opened for an instant and the rosy beard a peal of merry laughter in a voice that made his heart miss several beats. It was Gretchen's voice.

"Have a seat on the bench," said the colored boy.

Scipio brought a pad of paper and a pencil, telling Hans that he would have to put his request in writing.

Hans sat down on the bench and wondered what he should say in a note to Gretchen. With pad and pencil in his hands he gave the matter deep thought.

WHERE GRETCHEN WAS

In the Director's office Gretchen, lovely in fashionable afternoon costume, was enjoying a visit from Mynheer John Noot, the financier, and a middle aged crony who shared his enthusiasm for ballooning and for pretty women of the stage.

A balloon race was fixed for later in the afternoon, and Mynheer Noot and his friend were begging Gretchen to accompany them to the aviation field in their large touring car which was waiting before the door of the theatre.

Both gentlemen were dressed in the height of the fashion. They had bowed low over Gretchen's hand and kissed it with all the respect due to a queen. Gretchen had long since become used to these extravagant courtesies from gentlemen of fashion and leisure. She had acquired, too, all the little mannerisms of speech and gesture which make great ladies of the fashionable world and of the stage so much alike. She was, in fact, revelling in the incenses which rewarded her celebrity everywhere.

It must be confessed, also, that Gretchen was permitting herself to enjoy a few moments of coquetting with the financier and his friend.

"Ah, I would so love to accept your invitation," she said; "only I should be frightened to death."

"Frightened?" echoed Mynheer Noot.

"Frightened?" re-echoed his friend. "What is there in a balloon ascension to frighten anyone?"

"Why," said Gretchen, with a charming little shiver, "the bare thought of a fellow being floating helpless upon the air so far above the earth makes my blood run cold."

"Not the slightest danger, I assure you," replied the financier. "It is impossible for the balloon to fall. Even when the gas condenses in the low temperature of a great height, the descent is so slow and gradual as to be almost imperceptible."

"But," persisted the danseuse, "suppose a storm should come up, and lightning should strike the balloon and set it on fire"—

"One chance in a million—almost unheard of," said Mynheer Noot, "Really"—

At this moment Scipio entered with a note for Mlle. Gretchen.

"Will you excuse me?" she said to her visitors, with an affectation of impatience quite in the atmosphere of Gretchen's present life.

The gentleman bowed. She took the note to the desk, opened it and read:

"Dear Gretchen: I have come from the village to see you, and hope that you will grant that pleasure to your old playmate. "HANS."

SHE IS ANNOYED

It was plain that Gretchen was annoyed; also that her conscience troubled her.

She bit her lip, tapping her foot impatiently on the polished floor. Her remembrance of Hans and the other peasant youth of her native village did not harmonize at all with her present station in life. Yet she found it hard to put the affront of dismissal unseen upon her old playmate. She turned to Scipio.

"Where is he?"

"Sitting on the bench, just outside," said the colored boy.

The door was of glass, curtained on its inner side. Gretchen drew aside the curtain a little. She saw Hans—now a lanky youth—sitting on the bench with his head in his hands. Noted those wide, flapping trousers, those wooden shoes.

Gretchen bit her lip, and went back to her desk, where she wrote a note which she believed would convince even Hans that they were no longer of the same world.

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"I SEEN a piece in the paper," said the Manicure Lady, "that told how a girl went married a young woman lawyer that had won a case for him. The old gent had nothing but money, the story said, and I was just wondering, George, why it is that I have never saw such an opening. I have read about trained nurses marrying the rich old men after they had nursed back to life, and I have read about manicure girls getting hooked up before some Justice of the Peace with some old miner, and now along comes this story of the lady lawyer—and all this time I am patiently polishing finger nails and listening the long day through to everything except matrimonial prospects."

"But you are so young," said the Head Barber.

"Say off on the sarcasm, George," snapped the Manicure Lady. "I know I ain't as young as a spring butter-cup, but I've got a few years to go before I get into the wondering class, and I could have grabbed any one of a dozen minor league husbands long before now. I want a champion when I wed, George, a champion."

"You deserve one," agreed the Head Barber. "You have youth, grace, intelligence and beauty. You are one girl in a million, and I have often hoped that when you do leave this job to be a blushing bride you will be leaning on the arm of a real corker. I wonder why it is that so many of them rich old men marry their nurses."

"They say that a married woman is a young man's slave and an old man's nurse," said the Manicure Lady.

"Maybe that is the reason the nurses get the about-to-die rich fellows. But it would be just my luck, if I was to turn trained nurse, to find out that all the rich old men had died or got married, and then I would have nobody to nurse but my wife."

"Brother Wilfred is getting my goat a little lately. He don't say much at a time, but he is all the time throwing out little hints about the friends of mine that are getting married and settling down. Every time he hears about a girl friend of mine taking the lever's leap he says something about the girl not being half as sweet as I am. I can't help wondering, when I hear him going like that, if he thinks I am due to be a bachelor lady."

"There is many a girl who said 'Yes' instead of 'No' that whishes she was still a bachelor lady," said the Head Barber. "The reason you charming girls ain't married is because you are too hard to suit and too good-judges of human nature. Your brothers ain't got brains enough to kid you, now I will be getting along toward middle age. But, as President Wilson says, lots of things can happen in ten years."

"Yes," said the Head Barber, "and I guess he has found out that when a man is President lots of things can happen in one."

"What do you know? Maybe he had a daughter that looked like you and he liked you for that. What do you know, maybe he just wanted to find out for himself if you were a good girl or not. Did you stop to think? Did you remember that we send Helpe and Rudie away again and that we must eat—when you screamed?"

"I didn't have time to think, mother, fal—"

"And me," interrupted the widow petulantly, "where do I come in? Eight years since your father died and left me with you and your little brothers. I slaved for you. I didn't want that you work in the laundry like me and I gave you an education. Mrs. Schmidt was right; she said: 'Don't do it, Mrs. Meyer; education gives them girls stylish notions.' But I send you through business college, didn't I? I made you nice clothes, didn't I? I send my two little boys to the orphan asylum and I gave it all to you." She held out her red calloused hands. "Look! Look!" she shouted, "FOR YOU!"

Gertrude buried her face in her hands.

"Oh, mama, don't! Don't! I can't bear to hear you talk that way."

THOUGHTS OF THE FUTURE

"Huh! I thought I was through my washing and my worrying; I thought I could have a lay off from that steaming laundry where I slave away my life. You come home, you say you've got a job and it was a classy job, with fancy money; and it was so glad. And I told everybody—Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Baumgarten—now what? Tomorrow I go back to the laundry; Helne and Rudie I send them back to that pest house." The bitterness of her tone changed suddenly to one of sorrowful appeal. "Oh, Gertie, you done me a rotten trick—when you screamed. You forgot you had a mother, that's what you did, didn't you?"

"No, no, mother. It's hard, I know. But I couldn't do anything else. I'll get another position soon, mother—"

"And I'll get one sooner—in a laundry! No, I won't do it!" Her voice now was high pitched and strident. "Gertie, me? I won't do it! You with your silly stories every one tries to make love to you. Since when are you such a beauty? You get them notions out of books, I think so. And for that I worked all these years, for you to say and quit a job—like that!" She snapped her fingers in high dudgeon and disdain.

"But I didn't quit it. He paid me for the full week and threw me out."

"Maybe he did right, too. Making quarrels between father and son—such rich men, too! What right have you got to be so fussy? That's for rich girls—maybe they can afford it—and THEY don't!"

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weaker this afternoon. They opened with a lower range and after a rally, attributed to covering operations, resumed a downward trend, with bears attacking Union Pacific, New York Central, the copper s and several other usually stubborn issues. A feeling of uncertainty pervaded trading circles. Business was almost entirely professional. The decline in prices did not tempt investors. According to talk by frequenters of commission houses, there is widespread belief on the outside that prices are going much lower.

By afternoon in New York declines included Southern Pacific ½, Missouri Pacific ¾, Reading ¾, Lehigh Valley ¾, American Telephone ⅝, American Can ¼, Steel ¼ at 67⅞, it having recovered from a low of 67⅝, Amalgamated ⅝ at 72⅝, it having sold down to 72⅛; American Smelting 1, Northern Pacific ¼, Baltimore & Ohio ½, Union Pacific 1¼, New York Central 1⅛ and Texas Oil 2. New Haven was up ⅛, Alaska Gold ⅛ and Canadian Pacific ⅛.

In Boston New Haven was unchanged, Alaska Gold up ⅛ and United Fruit 1⅛. Granby, after selling down to 76⅛, had recovered to 79 and was then off a point. American Telephone was down ¼ and mining copper s were dull and showed a tendency to decline.

PRICES SOON RALLIED.

At the opening prices averaged a little lower in New York, but they soon rallied. The improvement was of short duration and was caused by the volume of offerings overcame the feeble support. "War news" was not of much importance in the early days, and when prices rose a little bulls said everything except actual hostilities had been discounted. But prices ruled even lower after it was reported that President Huerta had practically agreed to order a salute to the American flag. The early advance is said to have been chiefly due to covering by professional operators, who were inclined to be cautious.

Americans in London were under some pressure and price irregularity prevailed. There was free selling of Louisville & Nashville, and it was attributed to the resignation of Charles Steel of J. P. Morgan & Co. from the road's directorate. Foreigners think that any board is stranded by the resignation from it a member of that firm. Canadian Pacific was stronger in London, and by afternoon showed more gain than any other leading interatioal issue. The trouble between this country and Mexico seems to be regarded more seriously in London than in New York.

BEAR RAIDING RENEWED.

Towards the end of the first hour, when transactions totalled nearly 122,000, bears resumed raiding and among the rumors they spread was that the Lehigh Valley dividend was in danger of reduction. Another was that the Union Pacific per annum rate will be reduced to 8 per cent. and Baltimore and Ohio stock will not be distributed (in contradiction of Chairman Lovett's statement). Reports concerning its current traffic helped New Haven and it had advanced sharply for a time, but it subsided subsequently. During the last half hour of the morning the trend was irregular, but the market tone was weaker. By noon most issues had weakened fractionally and the usual business had slackened. It had been fitful from the beginning.

COPPERS WERE UNSTEADY.

Coppers showed no improvement to a close and shares were unsteadily suffering in the speculative movement from news that the metal price was trending downward. Small dealers have been selling, which they found buyers, a 14⅛ cents a pound price and it is claimed that the large producing interests can find no market for electrolyzie at 14⅜, their nominal asking price. It is stated that foreigners are now buying less metal, while the demand from domestic consumers has not increased.

Amalgamated directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, payable May 25 to stock of record April 25.

It is believed that March production by the Utah Copper Company will reach the high record total of 12,700,000 pounds.

GRANBY CONTINUED TO SAG.

At the opening trading in the Boston market was of little breadth and consequence. Selling pressure upon Granby was soon apparent and it declined during the morning to 78¾, off nearly four points. Alaska Gold was another feature, but in a more favorable sense. It continued upward, reaching the new high record here of 2⅝. It was also conspicuous on the rise in New York when most stocks were declining.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Judge R. S. Lovett has been elected to the New York Central directorate to succeed Levi Cass D. Hayward, and it is the first time in four years that the Union Pacific, which owns 117,- 850,000 of the shares of that road, has been represented on this Vanderbilt line board.

It is said that passenger rate readjustments by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and which become effective May 15 are for the most part reductions and 5 per cent increases.

The Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remained unchanged at 3 per cent. today.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston

DIVIDEND NO. 100

A quarterly dividend of three (3) per cent. has been declared, payable May 1, 1914, to stockholders of record at the close of business April 16, 1914.

FORBES TELLS WHY INVESTORS ARE NOW TIMID

By B. C. FORBES, Business Editor.

I'll a pity to have to preach caution so often in this great, wealthy, go-ahead country, where the sun of prosperity should shine and the voice of the croaker be drowned by rip-snorting progress.

But plain speaking my sometimes prevent unpleasant happenings.

So I purpose to speak very plainly today in the hope that the powers that be will do some sober thinking.

Confidence has been shaken—almost destroyed. And without confidence a nation must needs suffer, especially those of its members dependent upon an opportunity to work.

You will read today that New York city sold $65,000,000 of bonds yesterday at the best price in years, and that there were bids for nearly $200,000,000. That doesn't sound pessimistic, does it?

* *

But it will not. It will but reflect the nation's wonderful resources.

* *

Investors are scurrying to buy securities just beyond reach of governmental interference. That is the secret of the New York city bond sale success.

Cities like Cleveland and Detroit are today able to sell bonds on a fraction above a 4 per cent. income basis mainly because these securities are safe from governmental harrassment. Investors prefer to forego high current income yield rather than run the risk of buying the securities of corporations liable to be attacked by the politicians that I have repeatedly refused to take any part in contemplated investigations.

In thanking the many New Haven victims who have urged me to act for them, I will say that I deeply regret that my approaching long absence will prevent me from taking any active part in the movement to recover misappropriated assets. I will, however, add:

I am going to give all New Haven victims a bit of advice which may be more directly to their benefit than if I had undertaken what they asked of me. It may be timely advantage of it, by at once consulting their bank, banker, broker or attorney—for that is all I would have them do—they probably will be able to recoup their losses inside the coming twelve months.

There is a stock dealt in on both the Boston and New York Stock Exchanges which, after exhaustive examination, I believe to be the most remarkable stock I have known in forty-four years' investment and speculative experience.

I believe this stock will yield to those who buy now at present prices a profit far more than any stock listed on either exchange.

I believe this stock, although it has already advanced to 250% of its par and recent flotation price, will shortly advance to 500% of its par, and then to 1000% and probably to 1500% and even more.

Not only should the net earnings of the company be enormous but they should increase from year to year.

In making this statement I am acutely conscious of its apparent exaggeration, for I know the uncertainties which attach to all stocks, particularly at the present time of unrest and distrust. In the light of the new Massachusetts law, which quickly lands in jail the maker of statements in public advertisements that do not contain all essential facts, I unqualifiedly assume the full responsibility attaching to the above and to the following:

1. I have never had any connection with the company (the stock I refer to.)

2. I have no interest in the company or the stock, other than as a holder of stock bought as the public buys theirs.

3. No one connected with the company has had any part in this advertisement, or even knew that it was being written.

4. The company is a great enterprise with millions of assets, officered, directed and bankered by successful men of great financial responsibility and the highest business standing.

5. The nature of the company's business is such that its present and the greater part of its future assets and its future earnings can now be measured almost to a certainty. Its product is not subject to tariff laws, trust or interstate regulations, or to any variable foreign or domestic markets.

6. The stock has been one of the most recently listed on the Boston and New York Stock Exchanges; that is, it has been listed during the present year, 1967. I have had no direct or indirect interest in New Haven affairs and no direct or indirect part in the exposures. On the contrary, my relations with the management have been such that I have repeatedly refused to take any part in contemplated investigations.

I would impress New Haven victims with the fact that my conclusions have been formed from an absolutely disinterested viewpoint. Since 1907 I have had no direct or indirect interest in New Haven affairs and no direct or indirect part in the exposures. On the contrary, my relations with the management have been such that I have repeatedly refused to take any part in contemplated investigations.

In thanking the many New Haven victims who have urged me to act for them, I will say that I deeply regret that my approaching long absence will prevent me from taking any active part in the movement to recover misappropriated assets. I will, however, add:

On the contrary, my relations with the management have been such that I have repeatedly refused to take any part in contemplated investigations.

7. I unqualifiedly advise all New Haven victims to immediately exchange at least one-half their New Haven holdings into this stock provided they do so in the following way:

First: Ascertain through their bank, New York or Boston Exchange broker, attorney, trustee or business agent, the identity of the stock to which I refer. (There is no possibility of confusion with any other. My only reason for not naming it in this advertisement is that I do not wish to lay myself open to the charge of boosting it—not a serious charge on the face, but one which when made by vicious critics often nullifies an advertisement's purpose). Let me illustrate: The last stock the purchase of which I publicly advised was Chino Copper. It was being floated by a powerful group of successful bankers, brokers and financiers. I was not an officer or director of the company and had no connection with it other than that of stockholder. Its par was $5 per share. It was after $70,000 shares of it. I was in the present case, that its merits would quickly advance its price 300% or 400%, and as in the present case, I advertised my opinion, that its price would steadily advance until it reached 1000% of its par, its flotation price, and over $40,000,000 profit was made on it; and I have no paying 60% dividends on par, flotation price. Notwithstanding my widespread advertisements, many were deterred from buying by the criticism: "No man advertises an exceptional profit of a stock unless he has some for sale." Of course I had none for sale, and if I had those who purchased would have made 900% profit).

Second: After ascertaining the name of the stock, have each and all of my statements verified by banks, trust companies or Stock Exchange reports. Any of which can quickly verify them at least to the extent of showing, clearly and beyond possibility of mistake, that this stock has remarkable merits. Ascertain the location of New Haven holdings into it will give New Haven victims back their losses in a very short time.

In seeking to verify my statements, New Haven victims should keep in mind that there are a number of banks, trust companies, Stock Exchange houses, attorneys, trustees and business agents who have been no connection with New Haven pilfering that they will obviously advise against exchanging New Haven into anything. Nevertheless, I would impress upon all New Haven stockholders that they should not take my advice that is, should not exchange their New Haven stock into this stock—if for any reason they cannot verify my statements as to the latter's merits.

I am not in the brokerage business, and do not buy, sell or exchange stocks with or for anyone. Nor under any circumstances do I give advice on securities to anyone except through my public statements.

15 MILES SOUTH OF BOSTON
Free Excursions Saturdays at 1:45 P. M. from Boston, Garden Acres Station, Providence Division.
CUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING
by growing your own fruit and vegetables; keep a cow; raise your own chickens and the high cost of living is no longer a problem. Garden Acres is an adjoining suburb to Boston, Mass., and is reached by hard, cool farms, that have been cultivated for years, and are now subdivided into small tracts, that are level, healthful and healthier by taking advantage of the low prices and easy terms. These are the best ever offered and will yield a big profit to the purchaser, and offer the plain, common sense way to success.

Worry and HURRY:

These Are the Watchwords and the Disease of Our Age.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

Street cars under, above and on the surface start every minute. Men and women rush wildly to catch each train and save the part of a minute.

Every man hurries to his home and hurries away every day.

Every employe, every child, hears all day long the word, "Hurry."

There is little peace or rest for any of us except those staring in the cradle, or dozing in old age.

And even the poor little baby in the cradle is hurried from one bottle to another and from one bath to another.

And old age is worried by the hurry that goes on around.

At the top of this page there is a picture of every man in this world who amounts to anything.

If you haven't that little driver seated up behind you as the old fashioned hansom cab driver sits up behind his horse, you are not among those that count.

Every one of us has inside of his skull a power that drives him. And if the power is too weak to force him to hurry and struggle, wearing himself out if necessary, he is among the failures.

The question that every man should ask himself as he feels the lash fall upon his shoulders is:

"What is driving me? Am I well or badly driven?"

The only good driver is the little driver in this picture, AMBITION. The harder he drives you the better, and the farther he drives you the better. Your legs and your lungs may get tired, your heart may beat and your head become wearied. But you will get in the end, even though it be in the grave, a reward for all the driving that ambition does.

There are other drivers—cupidity, selfishness, vanity.

The main thing is to get the right kind of a driver, and then go as far as and as fast as you can.

This little driver in the picture sent General Grant through the war and into the White House.

He sent Christopher Columbus across the ocean, sent Peary to succeed at the North Pole and Scott to die at the South Pole.

He drives the little unknown clerk, who will be the big man ten years from now, as he drives Theodore N. Vail, long past middle age, who, without need, is doing ten men's work at the head of the telephones and telegraphs.

This little demon drives the millions of mothers whose ambition for their children makes every sacrifice welcome.

If you are not harnessed up like the man in the picture you are not going anywhere in particular.

A Boon to the Men in Our Navy

Common Seamen May Now Get an Education and Advancement in the Service.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

Secretary Daniels of the Navy has rendered a great service to his country and to the American navy by his plan for giving educational instruction to the common seamen of the navy.

Carried to its logical conclusion, Mr. Daniels' idea will enable the ordinary seamen who are ambitious, industrious and intelligent to become officers in the navy.

It will tend to stir the ambition of the enlisted man. It will tend to keep him contented with the service in which he has embarked. It will tend to keep him in the navy, where the country needs his experience and loyalty. It will tend to draw his mind to higher things. It will tend to make him a better fighter. It will tend to make him a better citizen.

Study is essential to efficiency in all modern enterprises, because study not only equips a man with knowledge, but it develops his brain power as exercise develops his muscles. Whether it was the ancient Greeks overthrowing the ancient Persians, or embattled Roman citizens overthrowing a barbarous enemy, intelligence always turned the scale.

We cannot give bigger brains to men than nature has given them any more than we can make better soil than nature has given us; but we can cultivate the mind just as we cultivate soil.

Education does this, and it makes the sailor more valuable as a fighting man. It also makes the sailor more valuable as a citizen. If he should wish to leave the navy after his term of service is ended he will be better equipped to earn his living and to be a useful citizen.

The educational system which Secretary Daniels has so wisely inaugurated ought to tend also to improve the character of the enlistments. Young, ambitious men will not hesitate to join the naval forces of the United States for fear that at the end of their term of service they will be just so many years older, but no better off than when they enlisted.

Under the new dispensation they will understand that by enlistment they can support themselves, save a little money and improve their education. They will know that there is a chance for promotion in the service and there is a better chance, if they choose not to re-enlist, in civil life by reason of the improvement of their education.

This idea of Secretary Daniels is thoroughly democratic and thoroughly American.

Questions Answered

HOCUS POCUS AND PECUNIARY

W. P. C.—Swinton, in his "Ramblings Among Words," says that "Hocus Pocus" is a monkish muddle for Hoc est Corpus Christi—the formula, "This is the body," etc. Pecuniary is from the Latin pecus, "cattle." In very early times the chief wealth lay in cattle, and pecunia became afterward the expression for all the representatives of property.

THE NOBEL PRIZES

M. R. N.—The "Nobel Prizes" were founded in 1896 by Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. He gave his estate of $9,000,000 to the creation of a fund, the interest of which should yearly be distributed to those who had mostly contributed to the "good of humanity." The interest is divided into five equal parts and given to the five persons who have during the year done most for the betterment of human conditions.

HURRY UP! THE CRY OF TODAY

Unless you have this little driver sitting up on your back you don't count in this world.

Unless you are among those that hurry, the world will pass you by.

Without the driver you can be comfortable and enjoy life in a small way. But in the end it is better to be driven.

Reduce the Cost of Radium

Many Reasons Why Its Entire Production Should Be Kept Out of the Grasp of Commercial Exploiters—Few Hospitals Can Now Afford to Have It.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

RADIUM in the market, if one can say that there is any market for so scarce and costly an article, is worth, weight for weight, about 130,000 times as much as gold. The price of a single gram of radium is set down at $120,000. Gold is worth, say, $20 an ounce.

But if radium can cure cancer, as many physicians are beginning to think that it can, its value in comparison with gold is infinite. It is, then, one of those things that should never be measured by the money standard. It is above and beyond price. No man has a moral right to withhold it from suffering humanity for the sake of making a profit. Yet there are men, and plenty of them, who would make a monopoly of the supply of radium if they could.

It is not certain that such a monopoly does not already exist. The processes of extracting radium from its ores that are practiced in Europe (where nearly all the extraction has heretofore been performed) are secret.

When governments keep things secret it is for the sake of getting an advantage over their neighbors; when individuals or commercial or industrial associations keep things secret it is in order to escape competition and make the public pay exorbitant prices for what might otherwise be had cheap.

It has been discovered that there are individual deposits of radium ore in the form of the minerals called carnotite and pitchblende, in the western parts of the United States.

Secretary Lane proposes that government lands containing these deposits be withheld from settlement in order to prevent private owners from exploiting them for the benefit of their pockets, without the slightest regard to the public good.

We all know perfectly well that there are thousands of men who would not hesitate an instant to seize upon all the radium deposits in the country and hold them for their own use, keeping the price at the highest possible notch, without the slightest compunction with regard to the sufferings of their fellow men. They belong to the type of merciless money-getters whose shibboleth is "the public be damned," and who are so well represented by smug factory owners whose profits largely depend upon child slavery.

Secretary Lane has been informed, doubtless by good medical authority, since what he says accords with what is generally known in Europe, that "one person in every ten more than fifty years of age suffers from cancer."

Put beside that statement this other, equally well authenticated, that the radium treatment offers the only really promising cure for cancer that has been discovered, outside the surgeon's knife, and the importance of guarding our radium deposits against the invasion of greed becomes evident.

Not less evident is the significance of the fact that our government chemists have discovered a process of extracting radium which will probably prove able to compete successfully with the secret processes employed in Europe, where, up to the present time, most American radium ore has been sent for treatment.

The new process, if it fulfils expectations, is to be freely given to the world.

Monopolists may cry out as loudly as they like against so "unbusiness-like" a proceeding, but it will gladden the heart of many a surgeon who now regrets the impossibility of using radium because of its prohibitive cost. I happen to know such a surgeon connected with one of the oldest hospitals in France, who said to me recently:

"I think that radium can cure cancer. But I cannot use it because it costs thirty thousand francs for a little tube containing a slight fraction of a gram, and perhaps a dozen such tubes would be needed for a successful application. The entire income of this hospital could not purchase such an outfit. There are only a few rich hospitals in existence where it can be found, and there, because of the enormous initial price of the radium, the cost of treatment is beyond the reach of any one except a millionaire."

Undoubtedly the extraction of radium is a very costly process at the best. But it is perfectly certain that the cost can be greatly reduced. It is also certain that this country is destined to be one of the greatest producers of radium in the world.

When Uncle Sam Backed the Monroe Doctrine

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY

IT was fifty years ago that Maximilian accepted the Crown of Mexico from the deputation at Miramar, and thus was afforded the opportunity for the people of the United States to show to the world what they thought about the "Monroe Doctrine," whether in their opinion it was a joke or a reality.

As everybody knows, the government of the United States had its hands full when the Austrian Archduke came over to establish himself in the land of the Aztecs; and he was permitted to fix up his throne, mount it, and play Emperor for a time on these Western shores.

In the meantime the monarchists of Europe were nudging each other, and with sly winks saying to one another, "We knew it. Uncle Sam was only bluffing. The Monroe Doctrine is dead." And then they laughed, and laughed again.

Good-natured as he was, Uncle Sam got pretty mad, but he simply had to bite his lips, hitch up his trousers and stand it. Being right in the midst of the biggest and bitterest family row that ever tried a nation's strength he simply had no time to attend to anything else.

But by and by "Uncle Robert" fought himself out of breath and fell down, the war ended, and the Union was saved.

And then, upon getting his wind a bit after his hard tussle with "Johnny Reb," Uncle Sam spat in his hands, straightened himself up, rolled up his sleeves and shouted to Maximilian to get out, that he "wouldn't stand for the sort of thing he was attempting to do in Mexico." Maximilian shouted back that he "didn't propose to get out at all; that there was a big man over in Europe named Napoleon the Third, the great Emperor of France, and if Uncle Sam had anything to say let him say it to Napoleon."

Taking him at his word, your Uncle Samuel sent Napoleon word to recall his troops from Mexico at once, as their presence over here was distasteful to him, and the suggestion did not have to be repeated. The French troops were recalled.

A New Plan to Make Our Own Weather and Control Our Crops

Sir Oliver Lodge, the great English scientist, suggests a way of bringing rain where it is wanted, dry weather at will, and stimulating our food plants by turning the earth into a gigantic Leyden jar that will tap our wasted floods of electricity from the sun. An Englishman's Letters

From J. Percy Smith-Brown (pronounced Smyth-Brown), Esquire, Hotel Pazazza, to H. Etherington Bettingham-Cholmondly (pronounced Chumly), The Towers, Chorlton-cum-Hardy, Cirencester, near Stoke Pennington the Lesser, Hants, England.

DEAR OLD TOP—This is an extraordinary country. My word, old fellow, a most extraordinary country.

The bally swanikers over here are always talking about being smart business men, and they preach efficiency until my head jolly well begins to swim. It seems they spent a quite decent bit of coif digging a silly old canal at Panama—a place, I understand, which is infernally hot and muggy—rum spot to pick a canal, I should say—and now their Foreign Minister, a Mr. Bryan, won't let any blooming American ships go through without paying heavy tolls, but asks a bally country called Colombia to send all her ships through free. I let my solicitor look after my business affairs and all that sort of rot, but I'm hanged if I can help thinking this is the most dashed extraordinary business idea I have ever encountered.

The blighters all put on new clothes Sunday and paraded up and down the avenue. The men looked awful bounders, but the flappers were simply ripping, old chap. I made a bit of an impression, I fancy. I wore knickerbockers and a top-hole cap I picked up in Bond street. One spanking little flapper I couldn't help saying at, and I fancy she felt a bit flattered. In any event, she looked at me a moment and gave me a jolly surprise by saying, "When did you get out?" I was a bit elated over this, although I couldn't see that the exact hour mattered much, and I told her, "2:35 p. m."

"Ah," said she, walking away, "we must see that the keeper loses his job."

Dashed extraordinary conduct, I call it. But then it is seldom I ever know what the beggars are talking about, 'pon my honour.

Rally astonishing customs they have over here. There is a town called Chicago in one of the shires—ah, yes, in Ohio, I remember. When addressing a letter you must jolly well put on "Chicago, O." Absurd, what? Just imagine if we did that in dear old England! I should have to address you at "Stoke Pennington the Lesser, H.," the H. being for Hampshire. How much simpler is the way we abbreviate Hampshire to Hants. They may call us effete, old cock, but old England can show these blighters a thing or two yet. I'll wager none of 'em would ever think of abbreviating Scotland to N. B., as we do. In fact, I don't believe the beggars know that N. B. means North Britain." Deuced clever of our postoffice to use that abbreviation, especially as there is no North Britain on the map. It keeps the bally foreigners puzzled.

If you happen to run across my old chum, Admiral Binnacle, tell him the sanguinary naval officers over here are jolly well barred from drinking even a glass of bitter beer. Extraordinary, what?

I remember old Binnacle collared me one day in the Rag. "Smish-Brown," he said (he was finishing his third bottle of port), "Smish-Brown, me boy, whatsh navy without grog? Abshly useless, me boy. Look at old days, m' boy; what wash the navy toast? Eh, m' boy? 'Rum and gunpowder,' dlamme; that wash old navy toast—'Rummgunpowder,' m' boy. First captain I served under was at Navarine. Told me he got squiffy before battle and ship got 'way from him. Rammed two Turkish ships and shank 'em, m' boy, shank 'em. Thanked by Admiralty. Wouldn't have shunk those ships' less he'd been squiffy. Plenty of grog, m' boy, all hands squiffy, Bri'sh navy win glorioush vic'ory over foes. 'Rumngunpowder,' m' boy."

Sorry you got so shirty over my request that you put up a couple of pounds for me with the bookie. You know perfectly well that if I had any credit with the penciliers I would wager £100 on the nod, but when the dashed cads insist on cash I have to pinch a bit. Put up the two sovs for me, dear old man. You know I repaid you one of the loans I've had from you.

Your old pal, PERCY,
